Merry, Merry Farmers

"Hoover There"

The President Rests

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

MRS. EMMELINE PANKHURST, who died yesterday, will be remembered with gratitude and honor.

Possessing courage, determination and self-sacrifice of which few men would be capable, Mrs. Pankhurst led and won the battle for woman suffrage.

In her magnificent campaign she faced the contempt of dull men and timid women. Some day the women of the world will erect to her memory the monument she deserves.

THE farmers' demonstration in Kansas City lent an artistic touch to the convention. It was suggested that Mr. Florenz Ziegfeld of the "Follies" had been engaged to prepare the costumes, just as he would do for a rural scene in his New York theater.

THE farmers brought hay forks and sacks and hoes on their shoulders, and while they didn't sing "We Are Merry, Merry Farmers," or stamp their hoe handles on the ground in unison, they presented a pretty picture.

What disappointed "friend of the farmer" lounged that exhibition?

AMERICANS in Paris sing George M. Cohan's war song, changed to "Hoover There."

Hoover was over there when he was NEEDED there. He was at work in the Mississippi Valley when he was needed there, backed by President Coolidge's confidence, in the time of flood.

Now he is elected president of the United States the people will find him everywhere he is NEEDED.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, leaving politics to the politicians, is off to Wisconsin's fishing grounds. Awhile ago at the White House, showing to his writer improvements that had been made for his successor, President Coolidge said, "It is no kindness to wish me four years more of this work," and he meant it.

* * *

THE country is grateful for the work he has done. And, while there was never any question of a third term, since Mr. Coolidge has been elected president only once, the people admire his unwillingness to raise the slightest third term question.

JACK DEMPSEY discovers that real estate provides the softest road to wealth. He sold a hotel in Los Angeles for $500,000, making a profit of $100,000 with great ease, and didn't have to be anybody "on the point of the jaw" to be anybody hit him to make the money.

* * *

REAL estate works swiftly, surely. You buy property, crowds move in your direction, mothers produce more babies, which put up rents, and without a struggle you are worth thousands or millions more. Ask the Astors, Goelets, Gerrys; or ask single taxers and see them rage.

WHILE Republicans at Kansas City put "rigid prohibition enforcement" into their platform, they are putting all sorts of rigid liquids into their interiors. J. E. House, writing in confidence to Cyrus H. K. Curtis, reports that "old man river himself is no wetter than Kansas City," the principal ingredients of that great boom town at present being scotch, rye, bourbon, gin, and fancy drinks if you are effeminate enough to want them.

SINCE Nelly Bly finished her trip around the world, and Dorothy Dix turned from straight reporting to deep philosphy, no woman writer has appeared as brilliant as Katherine Denton. Her description of great men gathered in Kansas City from the wide open and tight shut places isn't complimentary: "They were not so much the kind of men that a girl forgets, as the kind she just wouldn't notice."

MORE rioting in Greece, six killed, 40 wounded. Byron would be surprised to hear what happened after Greece escaped the rule of the Turks.

IN Tien-tsin riots many were killed and robbed night before last. "Great carnage" is reported, gunmen were busy, the streets littered with dead, many corpses floated on the river Pei-ho.

* * *

WALL STREET seemed to be recovering from its fit of nerves yesterday, and bargain hunters found it difficult in many cases to pick up their bargains. The change comes too late to save some little lambs. But they will know better next time—PERHAPS.

ARCHBISHOP MAY RESIGN ECCLESIASTICAL POST

London, June 15—It was reported in ecclesiastical circles today that the Archbishop of Canterbury will resign as a result of the action of the House of Commons in rejecting the proposed revision of the Book of Common Prayer of the Church of England. This was the second time within six months that the House of Commons voted down a resolution to legalize the revised prayer book. The "ayes" had a majority of 40 votes in last night's balloting.

St. Mary's School Commencement Held at Star Auditorium

1,000 IN AUDIENCE

Address Is Delivered by Rev. Wm. A. Conroy, Chillicothe Pastor

"A moral foundation that will serve as a sound basis for learning in the great school of experience is the equipment with which these 22 graduates of St. Mary's Parochial School tonight prepare to go out into the world," said Rev. William A. Conroy, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Chillicothe, in his address at commencement exercises of the school last night at the Star Auditorium.

"These graduates have acquired only the fundamentals of knowledge but their minds have been made receptive for the learning that will come later on in this 12 years of high school experience", Reverend Conroy said. "The fact that they are graduates of this school, sponsored by a church, places upon them a great obligation, for throughout the centuries the Church of God has manifested itself as the greatest educator of the world, performing its role as the great teacher of mankind at the bidding of Christ, 'Go ye and teach'.

"The church appeals to the intellect rather than emotion, and, through her efforts in education, has from the early days of the church until this present wonderful age, been largely responsible for the progress of the world. She stemmed the tide of barbarianism and brought about the stability of European nations," the commencement speaker said.

"The church has not permitted the fluctuating opinions of modern science to embarrass her, but has taken each new discovery and used it to her own advantage as the great educator of the world."

An audience of approximately 1,000 attended the graduation ceremonies.

MRS. CLARK DEFEATS MRS. WILMA S. LE VAN

Twenty-Nine of Hoover Members Vote for Her as Committeewoman

Columbus, June 15—State officials and prominent politicians here today received reports from Kansas City that members of the Ohio delegation to the Republican national convention selected Mrs. Hugh Clark Steubenville, to succeed Mrs. Wilma Sinclair Le Van, also of Steubenville, as Republican national committeewoman from Ohio. Maurice Maschke, Cleveland, according to this report, was reelected Republican National committeeman from Ohio.

According to this report, 29 of the 31 Hoover members of the Buckeye state delegation voted for Mrs. Clark, who is one of the Hoover delegates to the national convention. Mrs. Le Van was defeated as a Willis candidate for delegate-at-large at the Ohio presidential preference primaries, April 24, last.

Thirty of the Ohio Hoover delegates voted for the reelection of Maschke, according to the report.

Mrs. Le Van, who was selected as G. O. P. National committeewoman in December, 1926, to succeed the late Mrs. John Gordon Batelle, Columbus, has been prominently identified with Republican organization activities throughout Ohio.

Jury Unable To Decide How Actress Treated Process Server

New York, June 15—Unable to decide whether or not Gloria Swanson slapped the face of S. Alexander Cohen, process server, the jury which sat in trial of the case for two days was discharged today by Supreme Court Justice Irving J. Goldsmith.

After the jurors reported that they had tried for six hours last night to reach an agreement, the justice dismissed them and ordered a retrial of Cohen's suit for $25,000 damages.

The process server charged that Gloria slapped him when he tried to serve her with a subpena nearly three years ago.

Marion Republicans Give O. K. to Hoover; Will Lose to Smith, Democrats Say

Opinions Regarding G. O. P. Nominee Vary Here, Generally According to Party Connections; Citizens Representing Various Lines of Activity Interviewed

Various opinions concerning the selection of Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, as the Republican presidential nominee, were being expressed by Marion voters today.

Opinions ranged from sublime optimism to frank statements that the commerce secretary's chances of election were slight. Differences of opinion, however, were drawn generally along political lines.

While Marion was the seat of much opposition to the nomination of Hoover, Republicans generally, it appeared today, had fallen in line with the party selection and were prepared to back the nominee to the limit.

The city was officially represented by only one person at the convention. That was C. B. King, who was a member of the committee named by the American Manufacturers' Association, to draft the program of the industrial interests. Mr. King is vice president of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and president of the Ohio Manufacturers' Association.

Fred W. Warner, chairman of the Republican state executive committee who opposed Hoover in the preferential primaries and was defeated as a Willis delegate-at-large, could not be reached for a statement today. Mr. Warner is spending a vacation in Florida.

Opinions of a number of representative Marionites follow:

S. E. Barlow, Republican, president of the Huber Manufacturing Co.: "Hoover is just as good as elected right now. They might just as well get ready for the inauguration and have it over with."

Louis E. Myers, attorney and candidate for the Republican nomination as Common Pleas Judge: "I am the original Hoover man in Marion. I voted

THREE COUPLES SET MARK IN MARATHON

Claim Championship of World After Dancing 262 Hours, 15 Minutes

New Kensington, Pa., June 15—Three couples today claimed the world's marathon dance championship with a mark of 262 hours and 15 minutes set in a contest here which ended at 11:05 o'clock last night. The new record exceeds by more than two hours the mark made in Chicago.

One of the winning couples, Herman Rose and Agnes Shaeffer, of Pittsburgh, was married by a justice of peace last night at the 260th hour of the dance. The attendants at the wedding were the other contesting couples, James Martin and Barbara Gregory, of Cincinnati, and Dolores Shaffer and Harold Shelton.

HOOVER TURNS ATTENTION TO HIS CAMPAIGN

Nominee Likely To Soon Give Department Over to Successor

AT OFFICE EARLY TODAY

Office-Seekers Already Busy with Congratulatory Calls and Messages

Washington, June 15—Scarcely had the reverberations of the cheering Kansas City convention died away from three or four powerful radio speakers in the S st home of Herbert Hoover early today, when the Republican nominee turned his attention to preliminary campaign preparations.

Refreshed after a few hours sleep Hoover arrived at his office in the Commerce Department early.

Long distance telephone conferences were started at once with Kansas City managers for the G. O. P.'s new standard bearer. The immediate matter at hand was the selection of the vice presidential candidate in which Hoover will have an important part.

With this situation cleared up Hoover will arrange to turn the Commerce Department over to a successor. It may be conducted temporarily by Walter F. Brown, former Ohio political leader, whose appointment as assistant secretary sometime ago was interpreted as significant of Hoover's earnest presidential aspirations.

Office-Seekers Start

Several names were mentioned as Hoover's successor. The appointee named by President Coolidge virtually will be selected by Hoover and in the event of Republican prevalence next November no doubt will be secretary of commerce in the new cabinet. Among the possibilities was John Richardson of Boston, Hoover's Massachusetts manager.

The office workers already are beginning to imagine Hoover. Hundreds of

COOLIDGE ARRIVES AT SUMMER HOME

Northern Wisconsin Turns Out En Masse To Greet Chief Executive

Superior, Wis., June 15—Northern Wisconsin turned out seemingly en masse here today to greet President Coolidge, come to spend the summer fishing and relaxing along Brule River.

Thousands of the citizens of Superior, Duluth, Ashland and other nearby towns jammed into the railway station and the streets this morning to render a rousing welcome to the executive, when he arrived at 8 o'clock in a special train from Washington.

Governor Christianson of Minnesota, flanked by the leading residents of Superior and Duluth, were crowded in under the train shed. Flashlights hemmed incessantly as the advent of the president was recorded pictorially and the immense crowd gave vent to a vociferous welcome. The guns of the 12th field artillery of the Wisconsin National Guard also roared out a 21-gun salute.

One pleasure the Wisconsin people were denied. That was the cheery smile of Mrs. Coolidge. The First Lady has been ill for a week and Col. James F. Cooper, White House physician, had decided she should not be subjected to the strain of a reception. Accordingly only the president disembarked at Superior and Mrs. Coolidge rode on alone to a near-by summer cabin from the beautiful Bayou Chief Pierre estate, which will be the home for the next three months.

KANSAN WON OVER TODAY BY LEADERS

Need of Midwesterner Cited To Farm Plank Candidate After Lowden's Bolt; Movement Gains Rapidly as Word Passes

RECEIVES 1,062 VOTES ON BALLOT

All Other Candidates Retire from Field After Nominating Speeches Are Made on Floor of Republican National Convention

CONVENTION HALL, Kansas City, June 15—It's Hoover and Curtis.

Senator Charles Curtis was nominated this afternoon for the vice presidency on the Republican ticket, and will be the running mate of Herbert Hoover, selected last night as the G. O. P. standard bearer.

Curtis agreed to be a candidate for vice president today after steadfastly maintaining he would not accept the post. Gov. Sam Baker of Missouri, Ex. Gov. Charles S. Osborne of Michigan, Gov. Alvin Fuller of Massachusetts and Rep. Charles Q. Tilson of Connecticut were placed in nomination but all withdrew in favor of Curtis.

Curtis received 1852 votes on the first ballot and the nomination was made unanimous.

The word that it would be Hoover and Curtis came confidentially from a number of leaders, East and West, who emerged from time to time from the wrangling conferences.

"It's positively Curtis," several of his backers asserted, confidently, at 11:15 a. m. "We have the votes in our pockets."

It is understood the consent of the Kansan to stand for the nomination was won with considerable difficulty.

As late as 12 hours before the convention met Curtis had told friends he would under no circumstances stand for it. He told them he was satisfied with his place in the Senate, if he could not have the place on the ticket, and that they would have to look elsewhere.

Friends, however, persuaded him. They pointed out that he was 68 years old, and that this, in all probability, would be his last opportunity to go on the national ticket of his party. They also appealed to his party loyalty and regularity, and the party "need" for a strong midwesterner on the ticket to overcome the dissatisfaction of the Lowden bolt. In the end, they won him over.

At 11:50 o'clock his movement was reported gaining headway rapidly and he appeared to be "in."

Trade to Midwest

It was like a trade to the middle-westerners from the grain belt who have been viewing with considerable alarm the effect of Frank O. Lowden's virtual bolt of the ticket in his letter of withdrawal from the convention. Lowden said the Republican platform had rejected the agricultural West in the platform and his letter was interpreted on all sides as an invitation to the corn belt to look elsewhere than to the G. O. P. for relief.

Thus, the word that Curtis had been prevailed upon to run went a long way toward reassuring the doubters that the outlook for Republican success in the Midwest this fall might not be quite so dark as it appeared last night.

There were, however, several powerful elements that were not completely satisfied with the name of Curtis.

Strong movements for Vice President Dawes and for Ex-Gov. Channing Cox of Massachusetts, were still under way, and as the delegates started wending their way into the big hall it appeared that there would be no nomination without a struggle.

The Hoover captains themselves appeared to be somewhat divided. Some of them were pinning hard for Curtis, particularly those from the Middle West, but there were others who insisted that the November ticket would be stronger with the addition of an eastern man.

Moreover, the selection of Curtis, it was whispered, was more satisfactory to Hoover himself than that of any other candidate from the grain belt. The Kansan, while he labored diligently in

BOYHOOD CHUM GIVES SPEECH

Declares Faith and Prayers of Millions Fixed on Secretary

Convention Hall, Kansas City, June 15—The American people will be led into an era of greater prosperity and the Republican party to victory in November by the nomination of Herbert Hoover, the Republican convention was told last night by John L. McNab of California, as the name of the secretary of commerce was placed formally before the party as a candidate for president.

McNab, a boyhood chum and life-long friend of Hoover, declared the secretary of commerce was a great engineer, a practical scientiest, a splendid executive, a noted statesman, a kindly neighbor, a beneficient American and the world's greatest administrator of human welfare. He reviewed at length Hoover's career during the war and in the cabinet of Presidents Harding and Coolidge.

McNab declared the "faith and prayers" of millions of people were fixed upon Hoover.

Passion To Serve

"If there is one quality that dominates his life," said McNab, "one overmastering desire that animates his every act, it is the passion to serve his country. Within his soul, there glows that strong, robust Americanism—that Americanism that will not be satisfied until it achieves its ultimate aim—the advancement of the welfare of the United States."

It was plain to the convention that McNab sought to impress Hoover's Americanism upon the delegates. The Californian declared Hoover descended from "seven generations of American ancestry," and added that "his career is a living example of the heights to which pure Americanism, by sustained effort and devotion, may reach."

McNab also sought to silence criticism of Hoover among farm representatives. He delared "it would require the gratitude of a generation of farm producers to repay Herbert Hoover for his efforts to save the whole industry from collapse," following the World war.

Need Strong Man

"He compelled the disposal in Europe of the huge surplus of farm products," McNab asserted. "Had it not been for his prestige and his genius of persuasion, the doors of Europe would have been locked to the products of our fields and American agriculture would have crashed beyond all hope of recovery."

"Our people are aroused to the need of a strong, courageous man to carry forward the constructive policies of a great administration.

"This historic party of achievement has never been able to submit to the American people a greater record of constructive human action than the administration of Calvin Coolidge. And of the constructive part of that administration, from its inception, Herbert Hoover has been a vital and intimate part."

Comes to Help

When America entered the war, McNab said, Hoover came home to help his country. Touching on Hoover's food administration days, McNab said:

"From the day he was appointed he insisted that the one essential group in America that must have protection was the American farmer.

"His measures trebled the surplus food in the United States. When the armistice came he saw with the prophetic vision of a seer the peril that awaited the farmer and producer. Already food supplies were on hand for another year of gigantic combat. With the supplies of the southern hemisphere freed to European markets he saw American agriculture faced with the greatest peril in its history.

"It would require the gratitude of a generation of farm producers to repay Herbert Hoover for his efforts to save the whole industry from collapse. Only by an administrator with a spirit of prophecy to forsee the impending tragedy could the task have been accomplished.

Credit for Flood Work

McNab gave Hoover great credit for his work in the Mississippi River flood disaster. His work there, McNab said, won Hoover the heartfelt gratitude of millions of Americans.

In concluding, McNab virtually laid down a personal platform for his candidate.

"To insure to every American child equal opportunity in training and education, to remove the drudgery of the American house-wife; to brighten the toil of the workshop; to find rational, not artificial means to relieve the distress of the producers; to stimulate healthy business methods; to advise, to encourage, to protect—these make the pattern he has been wearing for the last seven years for the domestic America of the future.

"Engineer, practical scientist, minister of mercy to the hungry, administrator, executive, statesman, beneficent American, kindly neighbor, wholesome human being, I give you the name of Herbert Hoover."

NAMES CURTIS

Tincher Declares Kansan is "American of Americans"

Pledging allegiance to the Coolidge policies of prosperity and economy and promising "not to forget the west," Rep. J. N. Tincher placed the name of Senator Curtis in nomination with a ringing appeal for this "American of Americans."

Describing the former jockey as an international figure who gained his position solely through his own initiative and resources, Tincher assured the convention that Curtis "is a firm believer in party government and party responsibility."

His political program is:

"To continue administration policies—foster prosperity and promote economy.

"Safeguard legitimate business.

"Help the farmer.

"Not to forget the West.

"Enforce the law.

"Safeguard religious liberty."

PROTECTION ISSUE

Wood Places Name of Senator Watson Before Convention

Protection will be the principal issue during the coming presidential campaign, declared Rep. Will R. Wood of Indiana, in nominating Senator James E. Watson for president of the United States.

It was toward the end of his speech that Wood referred to the farm issue, and then to assert that whatever is done for the farmer must not be to the detriment of other interests of the country.

Appearing to anticipate that the rising Hoover tide precludes the nomination of the Indiana senator, Wood declared that whoever is nominated here today, "will be a worthy successor to the galaxy of Republican presidents which began with the immortal Lincoln and has continued to the silent, but wise and matchless Coolidge."

Wood denied that there will be no distinctive issues separating the two great political parties.

"There is, at least, one great issue that will attract or should attract every man and woman throughout the country. That issue is the protective tariff," he said.

SOUNDS WARNING

Farmers Must Be Given Assistance, Says Glenn

Sounding a warning that the farmers must be given assistance and declaring that the party that leaves 40 per cent of the citizens of the United States prorate cannot claim the right to continue power, Otis F. Glenn of Illinois, candidate for the United States Senate, today presented the name of Frank O. Lowden to the Republican national convention as a candidate for the presidency.

Glenn told Republicans that their party is faced with a great crisis: that dark clouds of hadship and depression hang over many states and that discord is in the air.

The Republican farmer was pictured by Glenn as still devoted to his party despite the fact that the platform pledge of four years ago to help agriculture has not been carried out.

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Sourness, Gas and Pain. How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or table form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Adv.

Value of Church Property in Marion County Is Far Above Million Dollar Mark, Official Record Shows

NEARLY one and a quarter million dollars is the appraised value of property dedicated to the promotion of Christianity in Marion County. This estimate is based on records in the office of County Auditor Earl E. Thomas.

The exact amount shown on the records is $1,308,440. This valuation, however, is based on the appraisement of 1924 in Marion and of 1926 in the districts outside the city limits and does not include valuable improvements made on church property since those years.

In Marion alone church property has increased many thousand dollars in value by erection of new church buildings and improvements on other edifices.

Besides the valuation of church property there is an additional $73,900 represented by cemeteries and mausoleums. This brings the total valuation of church properties to $1,382,340.

All this property is non-taxable.

87 Buildings and Tracts

The total church valuation is represented by 87 church buildings and tracts owned by religious societies and 45 cemeteries in the county. Of the 87 church properties, 44 are in Marion. These are valued, according to the appraise of 1924, at $1,055,800. The value of church property in the incorporated towns in the county is $113,540 and the appraised value of church property outside corporation limits is $36,900.

Records show that the old four wards of the city are reversed so far as value of church property is concerned. The fourth ward leads the list with property valued at $446,940. The third ward is next with property valued at $422,910. The third is the second with $131,420 and last in the first ward with $54,720.

Among the villages, Prospect leads with four churches valued at $42,700. Caledonia ranks second with two churches valued at $32,150. Others follow in order of value: LaRue, $14,400; Green Camp, $9,680; Morral, $8,380; Waldo, $4,820; and Agosta, $2,000.

These figures, it must be remembered, can be only approximately correct at present, due to the fact that the majority of the property was appraised four years ago, and none less than two years ago.

WILL OUST WARNER, IS G.O.P. FORECAST

Marion To Be Deposed as State Chairman, Report from Convention Indicates

Prediction that Fred W. Warner, Marion attorney, will be retired from chairmanship of the State Republican Central Committee came in newspaper reports from the Kansas City convention today.

Warner was outspoken as an opponent of Hoover in the pre-convention primaries and as a consequence is reported to be viewed with disfavor by the forces now in control of party affairs.

The report was sent from Kansas City following a caucus held by Hoover followers in the convention hall. It was indicated that an entire new state Republican organization will probably be effected in Ohio next August.

Warner, who was defeated for delegate at large when he ran as a Willis candidate in the April primary, is not attending the national convention. He and Mrs. Warner are on an automobile tour in the South, having left here about two weeks before the national convention.

In opposing Hoover prior to the Ohio primary, Warner issued several statements assailing the candidate's record and alleging that he is not a representative Republican.

ARRANGES HIS FUNERAL AND THEN TAKES LIFE

Cincinnati, June 13—After making arrangements for his own funeral, Albert Woods, 68, stepped outside the undertaking establisment and shot himself in the abdomen and head. He is in a critical condition in a hospital.

Woods told the undertaker that he had buried his wife three years ago and as he was old and alone he was ready to make arrangements for his funeral.

Members of Picturesque Troupe of Alaskan Dogs Welcome Star Reporter for "Interview" at Theater

BY FRANCES JENNINGS

NEARLY all of Marion was treated to its first look at a real Alaskan dog team about noon today when "Big Bill" Blomberg and his troupe of performing Alaskan dogs startled our peaceful village by taking their exercise in the city streets. That is the dogs exercised—"Big Bill" took the air from a genuine Alaskan dog sled mounted on four rubber wheels.

In their spare moments — when they're not exercising, making friends or eating—and Alaskan "huskies" like to eat—such delicacies as milk and eggs for breakfast and raw meat for a combined lunch and dinner—"Big Bill" and his troupe are professional actors. This week they're busy entertaining large crowds at the Grand Theater with one of the most remarkable "dog acts" ever seen in Marion.

In the picture above are seen "Big Bill" in Alaskan attire and two of his favorites, Kiyi (right) and Kazan (left). Kiyi and Kazan are true natives of the north—the same species as the famous dogs that carried the serum to Nome, Alaska, when that place was in the throes of an epidemic that threatened to wipe out the entire community and when all other efforts to transport the much-needed serum had proved futile.

These canines from the frozen land can do all the tricks that other dogs do—and many more besides—that is, they can after "Big Bill" has spent tedious hours in training them. For the big dogs are naturally backward, wary of man, while ferocious in their relations with others of their kind.

Bill's Dogs Friendly

"Big Bill's" dogs are different—at least in disposition—for after nearly four years of trouping, association with youngsters and a world of dog lovers, they are willing, really eager to make friends.

When a representative of The Star went over to see the dogs and was ushered into the sacred portals of "backstage" feeling just the least bit timid anyway, and then into the commanding presence of 12 of the most beautiful, massive and commanding dogs she had ever seen, she felt, to say the least, far from at home, until one of the kingly creatures extended a furry but friendly paw, cocked his head and all but spoke his greeting.

The reporter's welcome was more than assured—and reporters do love to be welcome—when the kingly creature's fellows, quivering with enthusiasm, all extended furry paws and vied with one another in friendliness.

While fond of mankind, Alaskan "huskies" are distrustful of others of their race—and play contentedly only until a chance bite on the ear or neck is grounds for a fight.

Interviewing dogs is a cinch—while they decline to express their views on the G. O. P. convention, the prospects for bobbed hair or the length of women's skirts—they gladly look their most gracious—nay, preen themselves for the admiration they know is their just due, and do their best to look intelligent.

"Kazan," "Chinook," "Chaco," "Silver King," "Ko Kush," "Polar Bear" and their other acting companions are quite as proud as the most fastidious actress and never make their appearance on the stage without the "brush-down" which insures them a "hand."

In fact, in a number of ways they are like man, fond of food, sleep, companionship, but always with an eye mindful of business.

Troupe "Personnel"

"Big Bill's" troupe includes three "huskies" and nine "malamutes." The former, snowy-white and by far the most beautiful, is descended from the silver-gray timber wolf—while the malamutes, which are dark and resemble a police dog, are the genuine northern animal bred from the black Alaskan wolf. The malamutes are stronger, hardier and more intelligent than the huskies although the best sled dogs are those of mixed breed.

Blomberg, a native of northern Minnesota, has had wide experience with dogs in Alaska. He was the breeder of some of the dogs used in transporting serum to Nome during the epidemic which gained world-wide attention several years ago. Blomberg brought his "troupe" of dogs to this country several years ago, accustoming them to the climate as he went by taking them a certain distances south at a stretch was when the dogs gained such w spread popularity for their beauty, telligence and the fact that they ar rare in this part of the country. "Big Bill" decided to stage them give the world a chance to see wha the only group of performing Alas dogs today.

If there is anything "Big Bill" fond of besides dogs—its more dogs proof of this fact are the three midget dogs known as "black and t small enough to sit on a man's h which travel with Bill and his tro While too young and not quite tra enough to act, the two smallest "b and tans" will be worked with Alaskan dog act in minor roles on—and we only hope "Big Bill" turns and shows us what the bi of big dogs and the littlest of little can do in one unforgettable canine

HOBBIES ADVOCATED BY "Y" SECRETARY

Needed for Enjoying Life, E. N. Hale Says in Kiwanis Club Talk

Stamp collections valued at $2,000,000, payment of $22,500 for one autograph and a collection of more than 50,000 cartoons showing pictures of Uncle Sam, were cited as outstanding examples of the results of hobbies in a talk on "Riding a Hobby," by E. N. Hale, local Y. M. C. A. secretary, at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Harding yesterday.

Hobbies were declared by the speaker to be necessary if one is to get the most out of life. A man without a hobby, he said, is missing a great deal of pleasure in life and because of the fact that he usually "rides his hobby" in his leisure hours, it means in most cases at least, that he is spending his time in a worthwhile pursuit, Hale stated.

The speaker in telling of unusual hobbies, cited the case of an eastern man who was making a collection of shoes worn by men and women prominent, for one reason or another, in public life. Shoes worn by Theodore Roosevelt and by Harry Thaw are numbered in the collection which is arranged in glass show cases.

A Chicago woman has more than 30,000 cartoons taken from newspapers and magazines containing pictures of Uncle Sam. A collector recently paid $22,500 for an autograph of Button Gwynett, governor of Georgia, who was the second man to sign the Declaration of Independence, and the stamp collection owned by a son of the late Hettie Green is valued at $2,000,000.

Paul Gildersleeve, of Columbus, champion marble shooter who will take part in the finals at Atlantic City, and John Kinsey, local champ, were introduced to the club by James Morrison and Grant James, of the Columbus Citizen.

SIMPSON IS GIVEN COUNTY JAIL TERM

Negro Captured by Office Watchman Sentenced for Petit Larceny

Municipal Judge William R. Martin yesterday sentenced Otis Simpson, 23, negro, to 30 days in the county jail with a fine of $100 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a petit larceny charge. Simpson, according to police report, was apprehended breaking into the office of the Kelley Island Stone Co., Wednesday afternoon.

A petit larceny charge was filed against Simpson instead of a charge of breaking into the office as was first planned. Simpson readily admitted entering the office and also admitted that he intended stealing a quantity of brass, police say, but was captured before he succeeded in finding the metal. Brass said to be worth about $4 was found in his automobile following his arrest, officers report.

Simpson, according to police accounts had broken into the office and was caught by John Roberts, a watchman, who held him at the point of a gun until the arrival of officers. The negro recently completed a parole term following release after serving time on a grand larceny charge, authorities say.

Spelling Contest Features Meeting of Caledonia Group

Caledonia, June 15—Mrs. Frank Ehlers, Mrs. E. O. Shaffer and Mrs. A. R. Glaze entertained the Adelphae Karitos Society last night at the home of Mrs. Ehlers. The president, Mrs. C. R. Harrison, presided for the business session and appointed Mrs. Oral Garber, Mrs. Myrtle Hines and Mrs. Belle Rinker as a committee to investigate a plan for raising money to meet a pledge and report at next meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Pipes in July.

By a vote of the society the annual banquet will be dispensed with this year. Mrs. M. D. Shumaker conducted the devotions which included the singing of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus" and the reading of the sixty-seventh Psalm which was followed by the Lord's prayer in unison.

A very interesting study of the Bible was given by Miss Emma Owen, who discussed the lives of Abraham and Isaac. Following this program an old-fashioned spelling contest was held. The side captained by Mrs. C. R. Harrison won with Mrs. C. A. Highly as last contestant. Mrs. Oral Garber presided as pronouncer.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. J. A. Resler, Mrs. Burt Burkholder, Misses Florence Resler and Lovina Shaffer and A. R. Glaze and E. O. Shaffer. The hostesses, assisted by Miss Lonna Shaffer, served lunch.

RETURNS FROM VISIT

Caledonia, June 15—Mrs. E. O. Shaffer returned Wednesday from Detroit where she spent the past two weeks visiting at the home of her brother, C. H. Warden, and other relatives.

States Neuritis Centered in His Arms and Neck

Could Hardly Stand Pains, But Konjola Ended All Misery, Says This Man

MR. CARY ANDREWS

"For five months I suffered with neuritis pains that centered in my arms and shoulders, and in the back of my neck," said Mr. Cary Andrews, 250 Lora Ave., Youngstown, Ohio.

"I tried everything for relief but the pains only grew worse, and I could hardly stand the agony any longer. At times it was worse than torture. It seemed that nothing would ever reach my suffering. Even special treatments failed to help me.

"Then I heard of Konjola and started to take this medicine. It began to relieve me within only a few days. After a little while I noticed the pains didn't come over me quite so often. I continued with Konjola and improved steadily. Now I am entirely free of the pains and suffering in every way. I am feeling like a younger man and have only Konjola to thank for my new health."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

ABOUT WILCE

Rumors based on the reports from the far west have it that Coach "Jack" Wilce, Ohio State University mentor and professor of football will do the directing of the grid team of some university on yon side of the Mississippi when he leaves the Buckeye ranks in 1929.

The rumors, although not as well founded as the house built upon the rocks, appear likely to sport critics in this section of the country who bear in mind views of the prairie regions last fall. At that time when downtown Columbus coaches were making the good doctor feel the heat of harsh words relative to the outcome of his team, Kansas and Nebraska universities were known to be dickering for his services.

The doctor, however, did not stem the tide of curiosity in replying to the reports one way or another but preferred to remain unquoted. His silence remained to his benefit until he announced several weeks ago that he would quit Ohio State to resume his practice of medicine.

But either medicine or coaching, Wilce will be missed at least by two groups: players under his tutorship who love him and the downtown coaches who will have to find some one else to criticize.

ANOTHER CHANCE

Those unlucky persons who missed it last year will have another chance to see one of the best ball clubs of the eastern part of United States in action.

The Homestead Grays, who knocked in 12 runs in the last inning to win the game from the Marion Athletics, last year, will again appear at Lincoln Park diamond with practically the same lineup, next Sunday.

Marion had led the field last year with the Grays until the eventful ninth. Then, Main, twirling a perfect contest, was taken by surprise when his curving ball failed to appear that way to the colored wallopers. The visitors, bent on leaving the grounds with another scalp at any cost, hit his high ones and low ones alike, three being carried out of the lot by terrific clouts.

When the dust cleared 18 hits later Marion players appeared rather dejected-looking, but the fans had had the time of their lives.

FISH HATCHERIES

To Be Established in Seneca and Hancock Counties

Columbus, June 15—Two fish hatcheries, one each in Seneca and Hancock countries, will be established in the next month or so by the state fish and game department, according to plans under consideration by the department here.

The first hatchery, according to the plans, will be constructed about 1½ miles south of Tiffin near the Tiffin-Bucyrus road. Seven pools, which will be fed by natural springs, will be made, at an approximate cost of $9,000, according to Frank Farley, State Fish and Game Department engineer who conducted the preliminary survey. The pools, it was said, will be about 150 feet square, and will be stocked with about 1,000 fish.

By scoring shutout victories over their opponents in the fifth round of the series last night, Osgood and C. D. & M. recreational baseball teams, today stand in a tie for first place in the Commercial League.

Erie Roundhouse nine upset the proverbial dope-bucket when it defeated Hocking Valley squad which until last night was in a three-cornered tie for the league leadership. Erie was tied for last place, until the fifth round with the Excavator.

Corwin Stars

The Osgood squad was twirled to victory over the Excavators by Corwin who held the shovelers hitless as well as scoreless, a feat that is seldom accomplished by recreational ball tossers. Three home runs, two collected by Godlicke and another by Conwell aided the Osgoods to overwhelm their opponents.

Fairfield cloisters succeeded in landing five safe hits but were held scoreless by the efficient fielding by the C. D. & M. outfit which won the game, 2 to 0. The fraction squad garnered but four hits, three of which were made by Fetter who did not score. Errors on the part of the Fairfield infielders accounted for most of the victor's scores. Gamble tossed for Fairfield and Kochensperger for the C. D. & M.

Goes 11 Innings

The Erie-Hocking Valley contest ended 5 to 2 in favor of the former team. Erie scored its runs from 11 hits off of the Hocking Valley pitcher, Trimmer. Hocking Valley managed to amass a total of seven bingles. Winters tossed for the winning team.

Led by Ward who banged out two hits and scored three runs, the Marion Steam Shovel Club put down the Huber players with a score of 7 to 2. Frericks was on the mound for the Shovel Club and fanned four of the batters facing him.

WYSONG TO TOSS SUNDAY'S GAME

"Lefty" Wysong, of Columbus, American Association pitcher, has been obtained by officials of the Marion Eagles baseball team to pitch against the Homestead Grays at the Lincoln Park, Sunday afternoon.

Wysong is being loaned to Marion by the Columbus management. The rest of the local lineup will probably remain the same for the Sunday contest, officials state.

5c MAKES YOU A SMOKE KING
—if you know the cigar to buy

Don't ever let anybody tell you there's no enjoyment in a 5c cigar. Here's one that's been knocking that idea sky-high for many years: Havana Ribbon. Any challengers?

Nickel cigar brands come and go. But Havana Ribbon keeps right on winning smokers by the thousands. Unquestionably the greatest five-cent cigar value the world has ever known! But let Havana Ribbon tell you its own story. One nickel brings it to you. One puff starts it. And the first thing it says is that here actually is a five-cent cigar that contains something you usually find only in higher priced cigars: ripe, long-filler tobacco. No bitter, under-ripe top leaves of the plant. No flat-tasting, over-ripe bottom leaves. No loose ends to fray or crumble. Full-flavored, mellow-mild ripe leaves only. Smoke so smooth you like to hold on to every satisfying mouthful! At cigar counters everywhere. Also sold in Practical Pocket Packages of five cigars.

SOME NEW ANGLES ON TOM HEENEY

The photographer hasn't missed a single trick in taking all these shots of Tom Heeney, New Zealand challenger for Gene Tunney's heavyweight crown. Heeney is a steild, plugging sort of chap, a slow driver who keeps steadily and relentlessly on to his goal. He is not spectacular, but he gets there just the same. And maybe—who knows?—in his own way he may go into the ring and wham the erudite Mr. Tunney right out of the picture. This ten-second movie of the challenger was made in his New York gymnasium while training for the July encounter.

HEAVYWEIGHT FIGHT PRICES TO BE SAME AS IN WINDY CITY

Tex Rickard Will Be Hit Hard by Taxes in Championship Battle

New York, June 15—Tex Rickard's schedule of prices for the Tunney-Heeney fight next month will be same as he charged in Chicago last fall but the net to him will be 10 per cent less, the difference between 30 and 20 per cent in state and federal taxes.

In Chicago he paid 10 per cent each to the commonwealth of Illinois and Uncle Sam. Any seat for which he charges more than $5 for the Tunney-Heeney bout at the Yankee Stadium will carry a state tax of five per cent and a federal charge of 25 per cent. Tex doesn't believe the government tax is fair and is going to give it a battle in the courts but in the meantime he will charge flat prices to include all taxes.

DENIES COMPTON WILL QUIT STAFF

Rumors to the effect that "Daddy" Compton, of the Harding High School coaching staff, would not return to take up his duties next fall, were denied here today at the offices of the superintendent of schools and principal of the high school.

According to statements of Jesse Mason, school superintendent and K. H. Marshall, principal of Harding High School, Compton has signed his contract for the coming year.

Compton has been basketball coach and assistant football coach for the past two years at the local high school.

HORNSBY GETS FIVE DAYS' SUSPENSIO

Pop Bottles Thrown at Umpire Pfirman at Boston-St Louis Play

New York, June 15—The throw of pop bottles at Umpire Pfirman at Braves Field, Boston, during Boston-St. Louis game yesterday afternoon, resulted in the suspension, five days of Manager Rogers Horn of the Boston Braves, it was announced today by officials of the National League.

Irate Boston fans bombarded Umpire Pfirman in the fourth inning when ordered Hornsby from the game for testing the umpire's calling him out on strikes. Luckily for Pfirman none of the missels found their target.

The National League officials charged Hornsby with violating playing rules and bad conduct on the f

Only Loss of Ruth, Gehrig and Pennock Would Halt League-Leading New Yorkers

By FRANK G. MENKE

Once again we have a splendid example of the honesty of baseballing and, at the same time there is furnished an excellent illustration of the absurdity of calling it a "race" in the American League.

The terrific pace the Yankees have set in the last few weeks seems to have distanced all opposition. They leaped so far out in front during that spurt, and did it so easily, that all the deck hands are concealing them the pennant although the season isn't half done.

Only the loss of Ruth, Gehrig, Pennock and Pipgras at one time—and for a prolonged period—can halt their onrush. And some doubt that even the waylaying of that quartet would shake those Yanks loose from their huge lead.

Hopes Now Embers

If baseball, as it is conducted in the American League were not entirely on the up-and-up, it's a cinch that somebody, long ago, would have halted those Yanks and said:—

"Lissen, boys, please, lissen. Draw it close. Keep the lead, if that's what you want, but don't make a runaway of this thing. Let the other teams get close and that will mean crowds in the towns that house the other fellows—and good crowds all around the circuit."

Hurts Jake Financially

But nobody said that. The only speaking that was done was by Col. Jake Ruppert, who owns the club and Miller Huggins, who does the piloting. They dueted as follows:

"Win every game—if you can. If you can't—blame on you."

It hurts Jake quite as much financially to have his team out in front as it does the other clubs. For, beyond New York, folks aren't going to break their legs running out to a ball park to see the Yanks committing baseball murder.

Sand Lot Outfits

The one-sided condition of the pennant thing in the American League now merely emphasizes the tragic weakness of the other teams—especially those in second division Compared with the Yankees, they are sand-lot outfits.

Just what is to be done is nobody's business—except the league executive and the owners of those misfit major league aggregations. It's the latter that must suffer from dwindling receipts owing to the pathetic showing of their teams.

But if something isn't done soon to build teams that have power somewhat akin to the Yankees, they'll have to handicap the Yankees by charging them with about 25 defeats on opening day.

Butler Aces continued their mad victory pace by winning over the Kenton Post Office nine at the Erie Roundhouse diamonds, last night. The score was 5 to 1, Butler collecting seven hits and the visitors three.

Stewart Jones was on the mound for the local team and tossed brilliant ball throughout the contest. He also accounted for one run and one hit. Lease twirled for the Kenton aggregation.

Butlers began the scoring in the first inning when they annexed a run and added three in the third and one in the fifth. The lone Kenton tally was made in the sixth frame. Lowe and Wolfe each scored two of the local team's runs.

Protests To be Considered At Special Session of Marion Baseball Council

Five Teams Enter Objections to Games Played in Sunday School and Industrial Loops; Decisions of Umpire To Be Contested

Five protests will be presented for action at the special meeting of the Marion Recreational Baseball Commission which has been called for 8 o'clock next Monday night.

Four of the protests entered at the Y. M. C. A. office were made by managers of teams in the Sunday School leagues, and one protesting a game played in the Industrial loop. Three of the Sunday School league objections are made for games played May 5.

Lee Street Presbyterian nine has entered a protest of the victory of Christian No. 2, offering for grounds the decisions of the umpire, A. I. Hinklin, in the game. Two decisions, resulting in the defeat of the Lee Street team are objected to, according to the protest.

Manager Stewart Jones of the Trinity Baptist team has entered a protest against the decision of the umpire in charge of the game played with St. Mary's, May 15.

The remaining three protests were made on the claim that their opponents played ineligible men in the games. Local Brethren is objecting to the playing of Edward Fisher, a University student in the game with Epworth Juniors.

Forest Lawn in protesting against Grattan, the victory of First Reformed which is claimed to have played two ineligible men, Yasel and Winters. Huber is opposing the victory of the Excavator nine on the grounds that Lyons, centerfielder, is ineligible to play.

CARDINALS CLOSE ON HEELS OF CINCINNATI FOR NATIONAL LEAD

Now Three Points Behind First Place Red Team; Defeat Braves

New York, June 15—Only three points behind Cincinnati, the St. Louis Cardinals today are poised on the National League runway for a non-stop flight into first place. The significant feature of the Red Birds' four straight victories over Boston is that their pitching aces, Alexander and Haines, are again in top-notch shape. Haines beat the Braves yesterday, 3 to 2.

Hafey's third homer in two days won the game. Rogers Hornsby was banished for protesting a decision and the fans showered the offending umpire with pop bottles.

Pirates Win

A crazy bounce which stretched Adams' single into a triple gave the Pirates a 4 to 3 win over the Giants in the eleventh.

The Cubs plastered Brooklyn, 7 to 3.

Aided by Lazzeri's homer with two on base, Herb Pennock of the Yankees chalked up his tenth victory, beating the Browns, 4 to 3.

The Athletics nosed out Cleveland, 9 to 8. Cochrane and Joe Sewell each got four hits.

Boston's Red Sox are headed for the cellar. They lost to the tail-end White Sox, 6 to 4. The Senators tamed the slipping Tigers, 8 to 3. Cincinnati and the Phillies did not play.

Professional Standing of Glenn Wright Now Doubted as Reports are Confirmed

Star Shortstop of Pittsburgh Pirates Called Up on Oil Cloth a Year Ago and Informed He Must Be Good Boy, WalshSays

ST DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service
Sports Editor.

New York, June 15—After due inquiry, I am able today to confirm without reservation stories in circulation here concerning professional incompatibility of Glenn Wright, star shortstop of the Pittsburgh club. These stories are absolutely right up to a certain point. A year ago the player was called up on the oil cloth and informed that he must be a very good boy in the future or he would hear no more about the adventure of Tojey and Flopsy and Uncle Robert. Terrified by the threat, the young man was reduced to groveling submission forthwith.

Not to be Traded

His subsequent behavior has been exemplary, they say, which made it inexpedient for Donie Bush, manager of the ball club, to admit that such a situation ever had arisen in the first place. Nor was it necessary for Bush to admit that Wright was not to be traded to the Chicago Cubs by midnight, as allegations would have had it. Joe McCarthy is not giving away infielders these days and I don't blame him a bit, either. Nobody will take the kind he has.

The Wright business came to a head today largely because trades will be taboo by midnight when the Major League deadline for the season becomes effective. The fact has led to all kinds of undercover activities including the placing of Virgil Barnes on the counter by the Giants and the prospects of trades developing between the Pirates and Phillies and the Cardinals and Braves.

May Get Pitcher

Bush says he naturally is satisfied with any club that can have upward of 15 players out of action at one time or another, and still remain within striking distance of the pace. And now that most of the boys are beginning to peep timidly out from under their splints and cold compresses, he thinks the club can't miss—and won't.

However, they say he is trying to get Pitcher Jub Pruett, Babe Ruth's favorite, and Frew Leach, the outfielder, from the Phillies in exchange for Outfielder Brickell and Joe Dawson, pitcher. Dawson cost the Pirates $25,000, making him owe the club about $24,783.15

Hornby's flair for his former St. Louis boy friends might end to something in connection with Tommy Thevenow, according to reports. Those mentioned Eddie Farrell, shortstop, and a couple of pitchers as being concerned in the Boston end.

Voluminous Skirts, Horses and Buggies Are Oddities in Marion Movie of 1916

MARION in 1916! Clothes in 1916! Imagine the contrast with Marion of today and it is easy to understand why crowds are getting a real kick out of the program at the Marion Theater this week. A motion picture taken in Marion in 1916 is being shown as a special feature.

The part of the picture that will strike the ladies as the most amusing is the clothes. Hats that roosted on the top of the head, and shoes that had high, laced tops. Voluminous skirts, tight, waspish waists, sleeves that were sleeves and not just arm holes. At the time the scenes were shot, jacket suits were evidently in good taste, for they abound in the picture, everywhere from the porch of C. C. Fisher's home on Mt. Vernon-av, to the gardens of Etowah of the King home.

Scenes are laid on the streets of Marion, along a river bank south of town, and at Etowah. The story is fragile and has the arrogant style of "Manhaters." In the closing episodes the manhaters are all converted.

John Doure, now in San Diego, Cal., and Lorraine Huberger have the leading dramatic roles, and Miss Reiber, now employed in the general offices of the C. D. & M. Electric Co., and Marion Craven, an employe of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., carry off honors in the comedy roles.

In one group scene, Dr. Jesse Swank, former pastor of the Epworth M. E. Church, is seen smiling on the steps of one of the public buildings and William Minshall is also seen in this same group. Mrs. Arthur Berry, Miss Brockett, daughter of former Mayor Don Brockett, Mrs. J. T. Mathews, and many other Marion people will be recognized by those who attend the show.

Stirring Fire Scene

Answering a call to the Marion Hotel, which in "the good old days," was illuminated with a gas light in front of the door and proudly displayed a barber pole to the right of the front entrance, the magnificent horses of the Marion Fire Department are seen charging down Main-st. The fire horses were spirited steeds and came promptly to the rescue of the hotel residents.

The escape scene from the upper windows of the hotel is in itself an argument for short skirts. The women, trying to climb down the ladder without the aid of the firemen, had a terrible time with their billowing skirts. First they were swished one way, and then another. Always in the way, wherever they were.

One of the group scenes of the picture is made up of members of the Marion Club, and the late George D. Copeland can be recognized by those who look closely.

Several stores in the city are prominent in the picture, the courthouse looms large, and horses and buggies are numerous on the streets. The auto which has so much to do with the dramatic action of the picture is a Buick. The street cars seen in the movie are obviously the same ones running on the streets today.

The shot which brings one of the biggest laughs from the those who remember the actors, is the one in which former Mayor Andrew Sautter married the eloping couple on the courthouse steps and then—kissed the bride!

G. H. Foster, manager of the theater, has planned several hometown features which will be shown at the theater this week and next.

HOOVER SENDS APPRECIATION

Republican Nominee Declares He Is Grateful for Confidence Given Him

"You ask me for a message. A new era and new forces have come into our economic life, and our setting among nations of the world. These forces demand of us constant study and effort if prosperity, peace and contentment shall be maintained.

"This convention, like those which have preceded it for two generations has affirmed the principles of our party and defined its policies, and platforms which now confront us.

"I stand upon that platform. At a later date, I shall discuss it fully, but in the meantime I will say that under its principles, the victory of the party will assure national defense, maintain economy in the administration of the government, protect American workmen, farmers and business men alike, from competition arising out of lower standards of living abroad, foster individual initiative, insure stability of business and employment, promote our foreign commerce and develop our national resources.

"You have manifested a deep concern in the problems of agriculture. You have pledged the party to support specific and conservative relief upon a nationwide scale backed by the resources of the federal government. We will and must find a solution that will bring security and contentment to this great section of our people.

"But the problems of the next four years are more than economic. In a profound sense, they are moral and spiritual. This convention has sounded a note of moral leadership.

"Shall the world have peace? Shall property in this nation be more thoroughly distributed? Shall we build steadily toward this ideal of equal opportunity to all our people? Shall there be secured that obedience to law which is the essential assurance of life of our institutions? Shall honesty and righteousness in government and in business confirm the confidence of the people in their institutions and their laws?

"Government must contribute to leadership in answer to these questions. The government is more than the administration. It is power for leadership and co-operation with the forces of business and cultural life in cities, towns and country side. It is the inspiring symbol of all that is highest in America's purposes and ideals.

Will Give His Best

"It is vital to the welfare of the United States that the Republican party should continue to administer the government. It is essential that our party should be continued in organization and in strength in order that it may perpetuate its great principles in our national life.

"If elected by my fellow countrymen, I shall give the best within me to advance the moral and material welfare of all our people and uphold the traditions of the Republican party so effectively exemplified by Calvin Coolidge.

(Signed) "Herbert Hoover."

BLACKMER INDICTED ON INCOME CHARGES

Oil Magnate Accused of Attempting To Conceal Figures and Perjury

Denver, June 15—Henry M. Blackmer, Denver oil magnate and missing Teapot Dome witness, was indicted by a federal grand jury here today on charges of concealment of income. The grand jury, a special one, is said to have investigated his income for the years 1916 to 1923.

Federal officials here expressed the belief that the criminal action against Blackmer would result in his extradition from France where he has been an exile for several years in his efforts to avoid appearance before the oil scandal investigating committees in Washington.

The indictment against Blackmer contained six counts—two charging attempt to conceal income and four for alleged perjury.

Lowden's Bitter Statement to Party Worries Leaders as Candidate is Sought

Former Illinois Governor Withdraws Name Before Balloting on Hoover Starts; Asserts G .O. P. Had To Meet Farm Problem

Kansas City, June 15—The new dictators of Republican leaders who have taken hold of the Republican party, was understood today to pick a running mate for Herbert Hoover.

But the question that is really worrying them was the effect that Frank O. Lowden's bitter valedictory to his party will have on Republican chances for success in November—if any.

Lowden's letter to the Republican national convention withdrawing his name, was the climax to the unsuccessful fight which the loosely knit farm organizations have waged in and out of the convention to secure what they characterized as their "rights." Lowden was their champion.

Must Meet Problem

Eight years ago, Frank O. Lowden would have been nominated for the presidency but for what the politicians call an "unfortunate break." Four years ago he was nominated for the vice presidency unanimous vote of the Cleveland convention only to turn it down later.

Yet, with his record of more than 40 years of Republican regularity, Lowden sent this message to the Republican national convention last night that was in the whooping process of nominating Hoover.

"I have stated publicly that I do not want the nomination unless the Republican party was prepared fully and fairly to meet the agricultural problem.

Withdraws Name

"I have waited upon no particular remedy but I have stated at all times that if there was a better method than the so-called equalization fee I would gladly accept it. I have urged, however, that it is the duty of the Republican party to find some way to rescue agriculture from the ruin that threatens it.

"This, in my judgment, the committee by its platform just adopted, has failed to do.

"I, therefore, authorize the withdrawal of my name from the floor of the convention.

"Though I cease to be a candidate my interest in the cause is in no way abated."

It was noted that Governor Lowden did not say that it was the Republican cause in which his interest was "in no way abated." The inference was let that his future interest, and more particularly his interest so far as the forthcoming election is concerned, centers around the agricultural "cause" rather than with the cause of his party. In any event, it is taken by party leaders in Kansas City today that Governor Lowden is not exactly to take off his coat and work for the success of the party this year in the territory in which he admittedly is popular.

The Hoover leaders today characterized Lowden's attitude as that of a "bad loser" and as due to petulance.

On the other hand, the defeated allies contended that the Illinoisan had acted in the only way possible consistent with his dignity and known views in withdrawing from the contest and in the semi-threat of bolting.

Effect Debated

The vice presidential row enters this situation to a considerable degree. It accentuates the conflict between the industrial East and the agrarian West.

Some contended that Lowden's withdrawal had killed any chances Vice President Dawes may have had for the Republican vice presidential nomination because Dawes was mainly instrumental in shoving the bill, with its equalization fee, through the Senate.

Others, however, asserted it had "made" the Dawes candidacy because it became now more apparent than ever that the Hoover ticket needs a strong middle westerner to balance the ticket.

With such a controversy raging, and in such an atmosphere the Republicans were back into convention at noon to determine the vice presidency. Numerous conferences were held all last night, but they failed to name the identity of the future next vice presidential candidate of the Republican party.

THREE NOBILE MEN REPORTED RESCUED

Dog Team Expedition Sent Out by Ice-Breaker Hobby

London, June 15—The Swedish Professor Malgren, and the Italian navy commanders, Zappi and Mariano, the three daring members of the Italia crew who set out afoot over the ice to seek aid for their marooned comrades, have been rescued by a dog team expedition sent out by the ice breaker Hobby, wireless messages from the steamer Braganza stated, according to a Central News dispatch from King's Bay, Spitzbergen today.

The Braganza has now reached Northeast Land. A party of hunters brought the news of the rescue of the three members of the Italia's crew, the steamer radioed.

No confirmation of the reported rescue has been received from the Hobby by the radio operator of the Citta Di Milano, Gen Umberto Nobile's base ship at King's Bay.

The Braganza has aboard eight Italian Alpinists, a team of dogs and sled, medical supplies and provisions. An attempt will be made to create a base in Northeast Land so that relief expeditions may be sent from there to search for General Nobile and his companions who are adrift on an ice floe somewhere north of Spitzbergen.

LAWYERS ATTEND H. E. HILL RITES

Name Honorary Pallbearers for Funeral Services, Held This Afternoon

Six honorary pallbearers, members of the Marion County Bar Association, were named at a meeting of the association yesterday afternoon to attend the funeral of H. Edmund Hill, representative to the state legislature and a member of the county bar.

Those named were C. C. Fisher, J. W. Jacoby, Hoke Donithen, George T. Geran, Fred E. Guthery and Hayes Thompson.

Members of the bar association were to meet at the Common Pleas Courtroom at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon, to march in a body to the Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church, where the services are to be held.

At the meeting yesterday C. C. Fisher was named chairman of the committee to draft resolutions of condolence to be sent to the Hill family from the bar association.

The courthouse was to be closed today during the funerals.

SHOUTING IS DONE BEFORE NOMINATION

Hoover Has Sufficient Ballots by Time Secretary Reaches Carolina

Kansas City, June 15—This convention got the cart before the horse. The shouting preceded the nomination of Hoover.

There was no opportunity to exploit that time-worn expression, "It's all over but the shouting."

By then the secretary of the convention was down as far as Carolina in calling the roll of states on the ballot, Hoover had the majority sufficient to nominate. Instead of the riotous tumult which usually follows the selection of a national party standard bearer, there was nothing but silence from the perspiring delegates on the floor.

The secretary droned away the reading of the roll and the Hoover majority piled up. Still no demonstration. The ballot was completed. A buzz of listless conversation on the floor, but still no outburst from the delegates.

Add and Re-add

The best minds gathered on the platform added the Hoover figures, re-added them and then added them again. Three different totals resulted. Finally Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which deals in figures of billions, leaned over to the press section and whispered, "It's 847 for Hoover."

A few minutes later the secretary announced the official vote as 837 for the cabinet nominee. Smoot was last seen adding up the figures again.

The Hoover demonstration came when John L. McNab of California, mounted the rostrum to place the secretary in nomination. McNab shattered all precedents for nominating speeches by mentioning his candidate in the very first sentence. He did not wait to drum up enthusiasm by reciting along list of a "man who" did this, a "man who" did that, and then whom" etc. He blurted out "Herbert Hoover" right off the bat and that touched off the only show this convention has witnessed.

Show Runs On

The California delegates, in the front row, leaped to their feet. A dozen young men popped out of nowhere, it seemed, and passed out flags and large fan rattles all over the floor. California started a parade. Two enterprising delegates from Utah hoisted a papier-mache elephant to their shoulders and fell into line. Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, permanent chairman, who had been speeding up things with a fast working gavel, sat down and let the show run its course.

Finally McNab proceeded. There were no more frenzied outbursts. The fire and enthusiasm had gone. The balloting was more of a ratification than a nomination.

The Hoover forces have dictated this convention from beginning to end.

Mouser's filing gives Marion a corner on the candidates for the congressional post. All three, including two Republicans and one Democrat are Marion men. UHLER-PHILLIPS CO. TO TEST NEW PLAN

Saturday Night Opening Will Be Tried Out First Time in 12 Years

After 12 years Marion citizens will be able to do their week-end shopping at a department store on Saturday night. The Uhler-Phillips Co., according to announcement of officials today, will be open Saturday night until 9 o'clock.

This it is said, will be the first Saturday night opening of a Marion department store since the custom was generally discontinued approximately 12 years ago.

The entire store however, will not be open. Only the basement store, containing a wide variety of popularly priced articles, will be open for the evening trade, it was said today.

Officials of Warner & Edwards Co. and Frank Brothers Co. said today that their stores would observe the usual closing hours on Saturday.

The Saturday night opening of the Uhler-Phillips store may not be permanent. Unless the public gives the plan approval the practice will be discontinued, company officials state. However, if there is sufficient demand the entire store may be opened on Saturday nights.

Morgan E. Burke, general manager of the Incorporated Stores, of which the Uhler-Phillips store is a unit, stated today that the plan was being tried as an experiment.

"We feel that there may be a public demand for Saturday night opening and the only way we can determine the sentiment is to try the plan. If the public wants our store open on Saturday night we feel that we should render that service," he said.

FLAG DAY PROGRAM IS GIVEN BY ELKS

Rev. E. L. Holliday Delivers Address; Ritual Depicts History of Emblem

Special services held last night in the Elks lodge marked the observance of Flag Day in Marion. A number of organizations have been holding special programs in observance of the event during the past week. The program has been planned for a meeting of the Betsy Ross Auxiliary to the United Spanish War Veterans to be held in the Junior Order of United American Mechanics hall next Friday afternoon.

The ceremonies staged by the Elks lodge last night were in accordance with the annual order issued by the grand lodge. The ceremonies follow the ritualistic program.

The various stages through which the American flag has passed since the adoption in 1777 were presented in pageant form. The history of the various stages of the flag was read by Street G. Smith as flag girls passed before the audience, each carrying an emblem representing one of the various stages.

The flag girls participating in the program were Erma Prettyman, Max Alspach, Jane McCurdy, Dorothy Creviston, Dorothy Arthur, Eliza Leach, Hazel Rife, Opal Gast and Anita Hoffman.

R. E. Prettyman, exaulted ruler of the local lodge, presided at the ceremonies. William Dowler, as pianist, and W. E. Orcutt, song leader, were in charge of the music.

Rev. Earl L. Holliday, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church, delivered the address.

Hoover Great Globe-Trotter and Adventure-Seeker; Life is Romance of Wanderlust and Accomplishment

Orphan at Seven, He Pulled Himself Up into Prominence

HERBERT HOOVER'S life and career is a romance of wanderlust and accomplishment. Certainly no other presidential candidate in American history travelled a more strange or circuitous route to come within striking distance of the White House.

Hoover probably couldn't be placed in the same soldier-of-fortune class with John Hays Hammond, Gen. Lee Christmas or Richard Harding Davis, but as a globe-trotter, and adventure seeker there are few others who can equal his record, and certainly none that prospered any more at the game.

Master engineer, globe-trotter, humanitarian, fighter, super-organizer, business genius, outstanding economist, cabinet officer, presidential candidate—these are but a few of the roles this truly remarkable jack-of-all-trades played in the course of a lifetime crammed full of action, thrill and high endeavor.

Left parentless at he age of seven, Hoover pulled himself to a place of international prominence by his own bootstraps. He was but 13 when he ran away from the home of his "grandfather"—in reality no relation at all—and set out to make his own way in the world. That he learned how to make his way may best be proved by the fact that before he was thirty he had amassed considerable wealth only to see it wiped out by the defalcation of a speculating partner, that in five years from that time he had voluntarily repaid the losses sustained in his company, although not legally responsible, and had started on the way to his second fortune.

Business Ability

Perhaps the greatest demonstration of his superlative business ability—at least so far as the whole world is concerned—was the organization of the Commission for Relief in Belgium. In five years between 1914 and 1919, this organization developed into a great economic engine with many of the characteristics of a government, supreme unto itself, and recognized and respected by all of the World War belligerents. It spent nearly $1,500,000,000, most of which was raised in the same way any government would finance itself; it operated a fleet of 200 ships, together with canal boats, railways and warehouses; issued its own passports; controlled food distributors; placed every house in Belgium on a rigorous food ration; supported schools; found employment in neutral channels for non-combatants, and furnished clothes and shelter as a sideline.

The overhead expenses of this stupendous mushroom organization were less than one-half of one per cent and its final statements were certified by the firm of international accountants which handled its finances.

When Germany began to feel the pressure of the Allied blockade, she sent her officials to Belgium to study the Hoover methods of feeding a stricken people, they were not alone, for the allied governments, suffering also from the destructive sea warfare, sent their agents to determine how this remarkable American operated under conditions that were almost impossible.

Returns to U. S.

In 1917, Hoover returned to the United States to apply the same food conservation fundamentals to the American Nation that it might better prosecute its own end of the war. As National Food Administrator under Woodrow Wilson, he appealed to the national spirit of voluntary service, establishing meatless and sugarless days in each week. While he was teaching prodigal America to be careful with its foodstuffs, he found time to organize a $500,000,000 U. S. Grain Corporation to purchase foodstuffs and resell them to the Allies, and a $5,000,000 Sugar Equalization Board to purchase the entire Cuban sugar crop and resell it to the Allies without speculation.

And after the war, at the solicitation of President Wilson, Hoover returned to Europe to aid in rehabilitating the war-wrecked nations. He revised his food distribution in Poland, Serbia, Czecho-slovakia, Germany, Austria, Roumania, the Baltic States and Belgium. Giving particular attention to the little ones, he fed 2,500,000 children. Some 6,000,000 more were housed in asylums, homes and canteens and provided with food and medical treatment. He waged winning campaigns against the epidemics of typhus, typhoid, smallpox, cholera and malarial fever which spread over Russia and the Baltics.

Work During War

It was this extraordinary war work that first put him forward as a Presidential candidate. This was in 1920. Many Republicans as well as Democrats supported him for the Presidency—in fact he carried the Michigan primary as a Democrat! Hoover wasn't sure himself what his politics were, Republican or Democratic. He had spent long years away from the United States without political affiliation.

He was inclined to lean toward the Democrats because he was, in effect, part of the Wilson administration as food administrator, but his own background and inherent inclinations were Republican. He finally killed his own chances and took himself out of consideration in 1920, although, at that, he received votes in the Chicago convention.

When Warren G. Harding was elected he determined to put Hoover in his Cabinet, and did so, although there was some grumbling on the part of the politicians.

Hoover was made Secretary of the Department of Commerce, which up to that time had never been regarded as a very important Cabinet post. However, Hoover had his own ideas as to what the Department could be made, and he proceeded to put them into operation. Today, the Department has its own foreign service, it annually answers millions of inquiries from American business men, it is an almost unbelievable respository for statistics of all kinds, it has taken the lead in establishing standard trade practices, it has rendered efficiency-expert service to American industry in all lines, cut down waste in manufacturing, and, in short, developed a gigantic business-engineer operating in the name of the government.

Born in Iowa

Hoover was born in West Branch, Iowa, August 10, 1874. His mother, a Quaker preacher, died when he was four, and his father, a blacksmith, died three years later. The Hoover family thereupon split up and the children were sent to live with various relatives. Young Herbert went to live with an old friend of the family whom the children had always called "grandfather."

At the age of 13, however, he was tired of the restrictions placed on him and ran away to Oregon. He first earned a living working in truck gardens outside of Portland, later getting a job as office boy in Salem, and finally returning to Portland to work in a real estate office.

The exploits of John Hays Hammond, world-famous engineer, at that time were getting much publicity, and young Hoover established the noted mining expert as his ideal. With a view to becoming a mining engineer, he saved up $300 and set out to enroll at the newly established Stanford University, at Palo Alto, California in 1891, working his way through by missing two school days a week and making up the lost studies at night. It was while at Stanford that he met his future bride, Lou Henry. She was a student there.

From graduation on until 1913, his life was kaleidoscope of adventure which carried him through the United States, Mexico, Canada, Australia, Italy, Great Britain, South Africa, India, China, Russia, and all of the out-of-the-way places of the world. He engaged in work in mines, railways and metallic works amid surroundings fraught with danger and excitement.

Went to China

Hoover was in Tientsin, China, when the Boxer uprising broke out in 1900. When the foreign settlement was attacked, he and his assistants mobilized a force of pro-foreign and Christian Chinese and set up a defense. For over a month, the settlement was under constant bombardment and rifle fire and hundreds were killed and wounded. Hoover personally manned a machine gun and led the defense. It was here, incidentally, that he undertook his first food relief, distributing food regularly to Chinese refugees.

It was about this time that Hoover had become so well known in mining circles that his services were in wide demand, and in 1902 he became a junior partner in the firm which later staggered under the defalcation of a member and resulted in the loss of the California fiat fortune.

Traveling extensively in the course of the next decade, the spring of 1914 found Hoover in London at the outbreak of the war. It is estimated that he assisted some 45,000 stranded Americans to get out of the war zone, through personal guarantees of himself and friends at the banks advancing many thousands of dollars for passage home.

Hoover's road to the Republican nomination this year was a curious combination of ease and hardship.

Reluctant Candidate

When President Coolidge eliminated himself from consideration, Hoover automically became a candidate. He was "off" the administration because he had a considerable hand in shaping its policies throughout the Harding and Coolidge regimes. Naturally, then he came to be regarded as the heir-apparent and the "crown prince." There was no other cabinet member, save possibly Secretary Mellon, who even appeared in the picture, and Mellon was 70 years old.

President Coolidge might have stopped Hoover's candidacy overnight in its early days. But he did not do so. He threw no straws in the pathway of his Cabinet colleague, and this fact was interpreted by thousands of federal office-holders as an indication that the occupant of the White House looked with favor upon Hoover as his successor. It is true, of course, that the President did not specifically by word or deed endorse the candidacy of his Secretary of Commerce, but the fact that he permitted him to remain in the Cabinet and conduct his campaign from the security of a cabinet post was sufficient for those who were looking for an administration bandwagon to climb aboard.

...SES INCLUDED IN NEW SENATE GROUP

Moses, Borah, Edge, Phipps, Smoot in Coalition

Kansas City, June 15—The worm has turned.

Whereas in 1924 the Senate group of politicians eased out of the picture at the Cleveland Republican convention, today a Senate group, but a different one, has come back to ride hard in the saddle under the Hoover forces.

The late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts went over the hill at Cleveland and he was a broken, dejected man when Chairman William M. Butler and other administration leaders took him not into their councils. With him went the so-called Senate influence, for Lodge was then the Senate Republican leader.

The late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge ators Watson of Indiana and Curtis of Kansas, were aligned against Hoover here.

A new coalition has taken charge. It consists of Senators Moses of New Hampshire, Borah of Idaho, Fess of Ohio, Phipps of Colorado, Edge of New Jersey, Smoot of Utah, Bingham of Connecticut, Sackett of Kentucky, Oddie of Nevada and Metcalf of Rhode Island.

All of them were given important assignments under the Hoover convention organization. Fess was temporary, and Moses the permanent chairman. Smoot headed the resolutions committee which wrote a platform that did not vary one iota from Hoover's wishes. Associated with Smoot were Borah, Bingham, Oddie and Metcalf. Sackett was head of credentials. The others acted more or less as scouts and missionaries for Hoover.

OUTLINES PLANS

Kirk Says $25,000,000 Will Be Spent on Ohio Roads

Columbus, June 15—Approximately $25,000,000 will be spent in the improvement of state highways during 1928, and about 6,000 persons will be employed direct by the state for this work.

This was the announcement made at the state highway department today as Harry J. Kirk of Defiance, with Co... Robert S. Beightler of Marysville as his first assistant, formally took over the duties of state highway director.

"In assuming the responsibility of ...ecting the Department of Highways ...s in hearty accord with and shall continue the policies advocated by Gov. Donahey," Kirk declared.

"It shall be the aim of the state highway department that by the end of 1928 the traveler will find a smooth road wherever the route markers show the way over the 11,000 miles of state highways in Ohio," Kirk stated.

Industrial Stock Market Under Selling

Today in Marion Markets
Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Fulfilling predictions of dealers, home-grown strawberries appeared on the local market yesterday and sold readily at seven cents above the price being asked for shipped-in varieties. The supply was not large and the berries had completely disappeared from the market by late afternoon. The cool weather has held back the ripening and berries that came on the market were in just the first stage of ripeness. A small supply was on the market again today, selling at 25 cents.

Shipped-in berries were continuing to sell today at two quarts for 35 cents although it is expected the supply will grow less as home-grown berries become more plentiful. Watermelons were also showing a decline today, when large varieties were being offered at from 85 cents to $1. The supply was only fairly large and dealers report an increase in demand. Canning pineapples are holding at from $1.25 to $2.50 a dozen.

New potatoes were cheaper today. Good quality stock was selling at from 35 to 45 cents a peck. Old potatoes have practically disappeared from the market. A few being carried were selling slowly at 30 cents a peck. Peas were selling today at 15 cents or two pounds for 25 cents, a reduction of five cents under the price of earlier in the week. Green and wax beans were also cheaper. Eighteen cents a pound or two pounds for 35 cents was the price scale.

GOING TO HOUSTON, FARMERS DECLARE

Platform Plank Republicans Rejected To Be Dangled Before Democrats

Kansas City, June 15—Militant leaders of the farmers' crusade—still full of fight despite their defeat here—today planned to carry the famous McNary-Haugen bill to Houston.

The same platform plank which was overwhelmingly rejected by the Republican convention, will be dangled before the eyes of the Democrats—with a promise that it will be a rich prize on election day.

Informal conferences were held to map out the strategy for the march southward. All of the arguments of economic advantage for the farmers and political gain for the Democrats will be carried to the southward, the farm leaders declared.

Not all of those who stormed the Republican ramparts with a demand that President Coolidge and his veto of the McNary-Haugen bill be repudiated, will be found in the councils of the Democrats, a canvass revealed.

To Continue Fight

While displaying a deep disappointment at the outcome of their efforts in Kansas City some farm leaders indicated that they would continue their fight within the Republican party.

The more militant—including William Hirth of Missouri, chairman of the corn belt committee, and William H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm Federation—declared that the Democrats would not only accept the farm plank but would beat Hoover with it.

Others expressed doubt that Gov. Al Smith of New York, if the Democratic nominee, would favor the bill either as an economic or political aid. Belief was expressed that he would see in it a blow at the consuming masses of the east who buy the farmers' products.

"We are going to Houston and if the Democrats adopt the farm plank they'll get our votes," declared Settle. "When the two conventions are over there will be a big meeting, probably in Des Moines, to decide the whole question."

"SCATS" BURKE GETS 25-YEAR SENTENCE

Cleveland, June 15—James "Scats" Burke, 68, must spend the next 25 years in Atlanta Prison for his participation in the $30,000 robbery of the Lorain, Ohio postoffice three years ago, Federal Judge Paul Jones pronounced sentence and fined Burke $2,200, here late yesterday after a jury found him guilty on charges of conspiracy, robbing the mails, breaking into a government building and jeopardizing the life of a government employe.

Political Advertising

Judge Louis B. McNeal has filed his Declaration of Candidacy for renomination as Probate Judge.

Judge McNeal has served two terms and seeks a third term because of the fact that no other Republican lawyer of Marion wishes to take the nomination and believes that the interests of those using the Probate Court are best conserved with an experienced lawyer on the bench.

Judge McNeal was born in Marion and has lived here all his life. He attended the Marion High School, the preparatory school of Wooster University and graduated from Cornell University with the Class of 1892. Was admitted to the practice of law in 1894 and practiced continuously, until elevated to the bench except two years spent in the army, he having served on the Mexican Border and one year overseas with the 37th Division, the Ohio Division.

While it is not a requisite that the Judge be a lawyer yet the statutes infer that he should be as Section 12854 of the Revised Statutes forbid the Judge from practicing law or being associated as a partner in a law firm. At the last session of the legislature the senate passed an act requiring the Probate Judge to be a lawyer but it did not become a law.

Judge McNeal says: "During my service as Probate Judge of Marion County it has been my endeavor to conduct the office efficiently and to render to those coming to the Court the best administration of which I am capable. The work in the Juvenile Court is a source of pride to me and has been accomplished without any undue notoriety or embarrassment to the children brought before me.

"In spite of the growth of the work in the office, being nearly twice as great as during the last term of my predecessor, it has been my endeavor with the very capable office force as now employed to keep the work as near up to date as is possible. It is upon this record that I submit my candidacy for

Daily Proverb—"Man's life is moulded by the disposition of his soul."

There does not seem to be occasion any longer for any misunderstanding regarding the presidential interpretation of the meaning of the word "choose."

A Des Moines wire says Iowa farmers own 10,556 more radios today than they did a year ago. Well, why not. Why shouldn't they enjoy their prosperity?

"Indiana's Group Loses Reputation as Politicians," reads a headline. And now it will be just like some unkind paragrapher to remark: "That gone, all gone."

Car loadings for the week ended June 2 were 934,214 cars, 22,704 above those of the corresponding week in 1927. There's no use in watching a barometer unless you credit its readings.

Were it not for our conscientious scruples regarding gambling, we would be willing to bet something that the donor of that $5,000,000 anonymous gift to the University of Virginia will never write an autobiography.

Proctor L. Dougherty, commissioner of public safety in Washington, speaks highly of the safety of Chicago's streets. Of course, it is to be understood that he refers to safety from traffic accident, not from gangster and bandit attacks.

Talking about ultra-hazardous risks, the reporter of a Chicago paper doing the Kansas City convention this week stated in one of his stories that the "square-jawed lady delegates affect the eye like a cinder."

We might forget that Robert Johns and Serena Iiergandi danced 259 hours and forty-three minutes to win the Chicago marathon, but the trouble is that the vaudeville people won't let us.

Down in Brazil, people are starving to death as the result of the destruction of crops by a drought. And up here in this glorious state of plenty we are inclined to complain over an occasional dry spell.

A jury up in Paw Paw, Michigan, has acquitted a forty-one-year-old woman who shot to death her husband, who was twenty-two years her senior, during a quarrel. The open season for killing elderly husbands apparently is continuous.

The presidential yacht, "Mayflower," is to be thoroughly overhauled at the Boston navy yard. The best and cheapest method of reconditioning the Mayflower would be to supplant her with a new vessel.

"Von Hindenberg in Prayer for New Parliament," reads a headline. No wonder, considering the exhibition put on by the Communists at the opening session, but we can't help feeling that a select assortment of well-wielded clubs might do more good.

A Washington wire says that 52,443 applications have been received up to date for admission to citizens' military training camps during the coming summer. Think of the feelings of the reds, the pinks and the yellows when they read it!

Sifted right down to facts, it will probably be found that about 99.44 per cent. of this farm revolt talk comes from the politicians. The farmers out West are too pleasurably engaged in contemplating splendid crop conditions to give much thought to the staging of a revolt.

Observance of Flag Day.

Flag day—June 14—was observed throughout the land in commemoration of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes by the Continental congress on that date, 151 years ago, as the flag of the nation. The observation of the day, to be nearer exact, was somewhat more widespread than that, as Flag day is always observed in Alaska and the Panama canal zone, in our island possessions, at our embassies, consulates and consular offices abroad, at all military posts where our troops may be, at any and all naval stations where we may have warships and by all our warships at sea and ships of commerce plying the oceans.

And the day is observed in very much the same way, year after year. Flags are displayed on public buildings, on some private residences, and on some industrial and commercial concerns, and by patriotic orders and bodies.

Perhaps we are in error, but the thought has sometimes been ours, as it was Thursday, that our observance of Flag day is not so general as it should be; that, while some display the flag as asked to do by those in official station making proclamation for the observance of the day, many of us do not seem to feel that it is worth our while to make evident our appreciation of the flag and the blessings we enjoy under it.

How else explain the course of the great number of our citizens who do not observe the day? How else account for the diminishing number of "Stars and Stripes" displayed in observance of Flag day?

Herbert Hoover for President.

Herbert Hoover, of California, is the choice of the Republicans of the country for their candidate for the presidency. We have put it thus for the reason that he really was chosen by the overwhelming majority of the members of his party to head the ticket. The action of the delegates assembled in convention in Kansas City was merely in ratification of the selection already made.

To few men, save a very limited number who have been candidates to succeed themselves in the presidency, has such an honor been paid by a great party as that conferred upon this able and brilliant Quaker from the Golden Gate state in making him the recipient of the highest honor within its bestowal in the manner in which it did. Seldom, if ever, has such tribute been paid to outstanding fitness for the place.

Without disparaging the abilities of the other announced candidates for the honor, it may be said that he so overshadowed all of them in the popular party esteem that the delegates to Kansas City, had they so desired, could hardly have done other than obey the popular mandate.

And there was good reason for the general support given the Hoover candidacy. It was founded upon the sure conviction of the absolute fitness of the candidate for the place. It is to be questioned if any candidate in the history of the Republican party, who had not already served a term in the White House, ever was so eminently qualified by education, by associations, by experience in governmental affairs, by knowledge of foreign as well as domestic conditions, as Herbert Hoover to sit in the presidential chair.

The Hoover record is one of accomplishment. Tasks presenting seemingly insurmountable obstacles have been assigned to him, only to be carried by him to successful conclusions. Whatever he has attempted, he has done. Despite his untiring energy and application, possible only to one of his vital force, we have often thought of him as a dreamer, a dreamer who dreams dreams for the welfare and benefit of humanity, and then makes actualities of his dreams.

To some, the great shortcoming of the Republican nominee is that he is in no sense of the word a politician. We believe the voters of the country will be glad to forgive him that.

That was an awful drop from the 100,000 "embattled farmers" who were going to march on the Kansas City convention to the 200 who did, but the really sad disclosure regarding the futility of the plan engineered in behalf of one of the candidates is that of a correspondent, who broadcasted the announcement that ninety per cent. of the 200 had never handled a pitchfork or felt a plow handle.

Juan Silveti, the famous matador who has recovered several times from terrible wounds inflicted by bulls in the rings of both Spain and Mexico, is expected to die as the result of injuries received when hit by an automobile in Mexico City. Any of us true aristocrats of the land could have told him that bull-fighting isn't in the same class as a hazardous risk with dodging automobiles.

President Coolidge invited Captain Emilio Carranza to take luncheon with him in the White House only to discover upon the arrival of the Mexican aviator that the White House cupboard was bare. Emilio is liable to go down in history as the Old Mother Hubbard of the air.

A French air delegation has just completed a 9,000-mile tour of this country, having come over to study aviation developments over here. The number of air groups which have come to us to study our aviation plans and methods, especially those of manufacturing, might be taken to indicate that possibly we are not so far behind other powers in air development as some of us have been inclined to assume.

The odds offered by Paris bookmakers against the various possibilities in the Kansas City convention were: Hoover, three to two; Dawes, three to one; Coolidge, five to one; Lowden, seven to one; Watson, ten to one; Goff, twenty to one. Not so bad, it will have to be admitted, for a foreign sizing-up of the situation.

The Washington district supreme court jury found Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, not guilty of contempt of the senate. The probable explanation is that the members of the jury have been watching the antics of some of the members of senate investigating committees.

Vagrant Verse.

SEA WOMAN.

Sea Woman, wrapped in the mist,
Tall gray Sea Woman,
Why have you come to my door?
There is mist in your eyes,
There is mist caught soft in your hair,
Why have you come
From the deep green caves of the sea
Looking for me?

Sea Woman, wrapped in the mist,
Have you watched me walking in sleep
On the shores of your sea?
Have you watched me, late and white,
A wanderer over the night?
Have you heard the deep-sea cry
That my heart keeps hidden away?

Sea Woman, wrapped in the mist,
Can you tell me why?
Do you know I am you, not I,
A sea woman lost from my home?
The white wind and the foam
Follow me in my dreams.
I fill my arms with the spray
And fold them over my heart,
My heart that is only a mist.

Sea Woman, wrapped in the mist,
Were you lonely, too,
With the soul of you lost and away,
And only the garment of gray,
The garment of blue soft mist
Left there to be you?

Sea Woman, wrapped in the mist,
Tall gray Sea Woman,
I will be lost no more.
I wrap me around with your mist,
I am tall and gray
And my blown hair catches the spray.
There is nothing more to be said,
Nothing more to be sung,
This night, O wind and foam,
Your lost sea woman comes home.

—Barbara Young.

THAT BILL COLLECTOR AGAIN.

Eruptions Due to Neglect.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There are many varieties of skin disease. Some have redness of the surfaces. Others have swellings. Still others take the form of pimples or sore patches.

"Impetigo" is a name given to certain forms of blisters, which appear on an otherwise healthy skin. They dry down into crusts, which on falling off, leave a superficial raw surface. This sore place speedily heals with no scarring as a result.

It is probable that impetigo is due to an infection with some pus producing germ. A favorite location is the face, particularly at some point around the mouth. It may appear on the nose, the ear, the hand and feet and, indeed, anywhere on the body.

Impetigo usually lasts four or five days or a week, but it may hang on for weeks. It all depends on the powers of resistance.

Young children develop a form of impetigo which causes the face to look as if it were covered with dried honey. Sometimes this form is called "milk crusts."

Most forms of impetigo are infectious. That is, if the discharge is carried by a razor blade or other toilet article, a previously healthy skin may become involved. Wherever the germs find a broken surface they enter and multiply.

This habit of the disease makes it an uncomfortable complication of any other skin trouble. A burn or an eczema may have impetigo engrafted upon it.

Crust formation behind the ears or about the nostrils may be a form of impetigo. Sometimes it attacks the lining of the mouth and even the tongue.

You should be careful of your skin and treat it considerately. Don't scratch, pick and pinch it. Be as good to it as you are to the surface of your piano, or of the paint on your automobile.

If the impetigo develops the crusts must be removed. This should be thoroughly done. A moist dressing may be applied or the parts soaked till the crust softens. Then the crust may be cleaned off and the skin given appropriate treatment which your doctor will prescribe.

If the crusts are not removed the germs have a beautiful place to multiply. The secretions under the crusts and the heat of the body make an ideal breeding place.

Skin eruptions are signs of bodily neglect or of local neglect. You should learn the secrets of proper care of this structure and give at least as much attention to the welfare of your skin as you do to the rest of your body. While some troubles are obstinate and difficult, many of them can be relieved speedily by proper attention.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

W. J. Q—What causes soreness in the back and deep soreness in the muscles? Also have stomach trouble and headache.

2—What can I do to reduce?

A—Very likely due to a rheumatic condition. First of all locate the source of infection. Your diet and elimination may be at fault since you are troubled with your stomach and have headaches. Correct the diet and avoid constipation. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2—Restrict your diet in regard to sweets and starchy foods and have lots of outdoor exercise. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2—Have had neuralgia in my head, face and arms, mostly on the right side. What would you advise?

A—If you follow the general rules for good health and continue taking your tonic it should not be necessary to resort to other means to keep the system clear. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2—Try to locate the source of the infection. The teeth and tonsils may have a bearing on the trouble. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

M. D. Q—I have low blood pressure and it affects me so that I can not remember things. Everything seems mixed up. What would you advise? Is low pressure serious?

A—Abnormal blood pressure, whether too high or too low should have careful attention. Treatment will usually bring about results. There may be some infection responsible. The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

An automobile driven by spurts of expanding gases, like a Fourth of July rocket, has been given a trial in Germany. Professor R. H. Goddard, of Clark university, Worcester, has worked for years on the idea of a rocket that will penetrate beyond the air which surrounds the earth—and perhaps land on the moon. Tests of the rocket automobile may be followed by the building of a rocket aeroplane that will go higher than any plane can reach today. Will the Lindbergh of the future be the man who makes the first inter-planetary flight?

If you are liked by everybody you ought to write yourself down as a failure and start all over again. It isn't possible to have ideas of any importance, convictions, or courage and be liked by everybody. To say that a man is universally popular is to condemn him in the eyes of the more intelligent. Even wealth, which may be accidental, which you may inherit or win without having exercised any singular good judgment, will be sure to make you unpopular with some who haven't wealth. And no matter how you spend it there will always be some who think you are crazy. Don't crave universal popularity. Even if you won to that position you would lose—because you wouldn't be standing for anything.

Editorial Opinion.

General Lord was in his usual high spirits when he delivered his annual budget talk Monday night. Figures are dull things, and dollars in the federal treasury are not so interesting as they ought o be. General Lord has a knack of dressing them up and making them presentable, even entertaining.

He depends on a fund of anecdote which he must cull through the year from his reading and experience. Many an after-dinner speaker would envy him the aptness of his allusions. Last year he set a saving of $85,000,000 as a mark for the efforts of the economizers. When all the accounts were in, it was found that they had saved only $15,000,000.

That reminded the general of the apothecary who compounded a prescription for a boy. The charge was a dollar. All the boy had was a nickel. The apothecary dropped it in the till with the aside: "Well, I made four cents anyhow."

The director of the budget would not long survive if he could not be philosophical and merry about such things. In spite of his smile—perhaps because of it—he manages to enforce fairly rigid economy on the bureau chiefs. They like to be treated humanly, but they have come to know that they must show cause for their requests for an appropriation before General Lord will admit that it is "not inconsistent with the president's program."

THEN WE'RE ALL DIPPY.

Rare, indeed, is the individual who doesn't expend a certain amount of nervous energy almost every time he talks over the telephone by scribbling lines and numbers, or making fantastic drawings. The walls around public telephones bear mute witness to this habit, which the medical fraternity broadly classifies as "tic," if it is sufficiently a fixed habit with the individual. Louise Rice, well-known graphologist, goes further in her warning against the scribbling trick. Miss Rice says that it is often an indication of unfortunate mental conditions of which the hand is aware long before the person to whom hand and brain belong knows that anything is wrong. If the drawings and scribblings take the form of death's heads, ugly faces and other unpleasant formations, "the hand fears that which is going on in the dark recesses of the mind," says she. "Confusion in scribblings, when they have usually been well defined and when there is no mental trouble felt, show nervous conditions which are apt to break off, sometimes long after the information has been conveyed by the symbolism."

Ain't it awful!—Detroit Free Press.

Tarantula Life.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

The tarantula, avers Professor W. J. Baerg, of the University of Arkansas, lives to at least the age of twenty years, probably to a much greater age. The males, females do, and they seem to confirm Kipling's metrical, but unpoetic line, "the female of the species is more deadly than the male."

The male tarantula takes eleven years to grow up into a giant spider; then he falls in love, has offspring and almost immediately dies, "rarely surviving to see another season." The joys of parenthood are the privilege of the female tarantula alone. The male has not even the satisfaction of looking himself until the last year of his life. During all the preceding years he is indistinguishable from the women. Twenty-two times during his long growth out of sexual insignificance, he changes his skin, and the last of these changes makes him every inch, shall I say a tarantulus instead of a tarantula, putting him into a masculine conjugation.

Professor Baerg knows these facts because he has brought up tarantulas by hand, as it were, in his laboratory. He has had some of these charming eight-leggers under continuous observation for nine years. Think of wishing a happy new year to the same big hairy spider nine years in succession! Few could bear to do it once.

The life cycle of these spiders has not hitherto been known to science, and some prejudiced persons may wish that it had been found to be shorter. A twenty or thirty-year-old tarantula is not a pleasing personage to encounter. He, or rather she, since the males do not attain than advanced age, has no points of beauty for the human eye. The tarantula is the elephant of spiders, and has more than elephantine terror for the startled observer, who finds him, perhaps, in the gold-green bowers of a banana-bunch.

Professor Baerg tells one nerve-quieting fact about the tarantula, which is that the beast never stalks its prey or leaps upon it from a distance—as its long, powerful legs would seem to indicate—but instead, waits motionless at the mouth of its den in the ground until some unfortunate cricket, grasshopper, cockroach, or caterpiller actually touches it in passing, whereupon quick as lightning the terrible fangs seize the victim and the jaws, which in the tarantula move up and down, says Mrs. Cragin, instead of sidewise as in all other spiders, perform their work.

There are many species of tarantulas, or spiders called tarantulas. Some of them spread their stout legs over three or four inches. Some in Southern American climates feed upon small birds, catching them in the trees.

The spider that originally bore the name tarantula is a native of southern Italy. It is not as large as some of the American species. Tradition ascribed to the poison communicated by its bite the power to produce a nervous disease called "tarantism," which could only be cured by music which aroused the victim out of his lethargy and set him dancing until he fell down exhausted in a profuse perspiration; and this, it was said, eliminated the poison. A well-known dance called the tarantella, derived from this tradition, is still exhibited to travelers in southern Italy.

It is doubtful whether the bite of even the largest tarantula is fatal to man; but it may produce unpleasant consequences. It won't bite you anyway if you don't touch it. If there are any tarantula philosophers they probably wonder how the Creator came to make such an all-slaughtering monster as man. —Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, June 15—Thoughts while strolling Broadway after dark. The sickly green glow of quick photo shops. Mannish women with swagger sticks. Beauty parlor signs, "Cigaret stains removed instantly." Full-page Oursler and Bide Dudley. Amon Carter of Fort Worth. Hurrah for West Texas!

The alert theatrical ticket clerks at the battery of phones. Shiny-haired dance hall. One dollar cleaners. And boys who "clean you" for less. Girls who bestow winks and knowing smiles and walk leisurely up and down street. F. P. A.'s neck. T. E. Powers, the cartoonist.

Stockings with runners. Rhinestone belts. Auctioneers who are not standing before you to make a penny—but to advertise their products. What's become of Brooks Johns? The movie starters with long capes. Fresh doughnuts. Chow mein bazaars. Pictures of the Spanish inquisition.

Not quite like the old Bowery—but almost. Girls who carry cigarets and matches in diamond-shaped bags. Chorines in whatyoucallems getting a breath of fresh air at stage doors. The lady who dropped her life savings in a revue show—and is still smiling.

Hawkers who hurl morning editions from moving trucks. Glitter of all-night cloth store windows. Freshly-barbered boys around the Winter garden. Newsies throwing dice in doorways. Ladies who steer boy friends from jewelry windows.

Times square as light as noon day. Elmer Davis, an Aurora, Indiana, boy, who made good in the city. Papers from all cities. Autograffers. Window batter-cake queens who look out over the sidewalk crowds so haughtily. George White selling advance tickets at the box office of his own theater.

Ziegfeld steps up to a sandwich counter. Ticket speculators makin, curtain time spiels. The crepuscular gloom of the Metropolitan. The mephistophelean fellow with the electrically-lighted shirt front. And the faded women in black dresses and white cotton gloves who sell packets of gum.

The New York visitor to receive the greatest amount of publicity during the year was Trader Horn, the African pot mender, who was immortalized in a book. The patrician was not of particular importance. He was just a lonely old fruit with a beard, but he was a colorful copy in contrast to the usual array of dukes, foreign authors and movie stars.

It was a peculiar commentary on fame that probably not one in 10,000 can recall the name of the talented English lady who discovered Trader Horn at her back door, sensed the literary possibilities of his life, wrote the book and made him rich. Nor did the trader himself dwell at any length on his benefactress.

A gentleman in a dilemma phoned me this morning. He found himself in a night club at 4 a. m. with a throbbing head and a hazy memory of the hectic night.

This evening he telephoned the excuse was not a world beater. I never thought it would be. But when one strays off the reservation into "play saloon" one lie is as good as another. And will the gentleman who asks how I know please leave the hall.—Copyright, 1928, the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

TURNS ATTENTION TO HIS CAMPAIGN

Hoover Likely To Soon Give Department Over to Successor

telegrams and long distance calls from all parts of the country were coming in today, poorly camouflaged as congratulatory, by men who had suggestions to make as to this or that appointment

No Statement Yet

It now appears that Hoover will remain in Washington at least a week. Arrival of his Kansas City forces is expected by Monday when a series of conferences will be started to plan the campaign. No decision has been reached as to when he will go to Palo Alto—Tall Trees—in California. It is there Hoover will "get in training" for the long grind of the presidential drive. He expected to be formally notified of the nomination in about six weeks or two months.

No statement has yet been forthcoming from Hoover.

"I have no comment to make," Hoover said to correspondents, "I just came down to look at you."

Congratulations were extended by the men who have covered Hoover's department since he became secretary, March 5, 1921. The secretary beamed but merely said:

"Thank you."

There may be some formal announcement today.

Hemorrhoid Sufferers

You Can End All Pile Misery Without Cutting or Salves

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting often fails?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Henney & Cooper and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, quick and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.—Adv.

lights were working on their speeches. Old-timers were searching their attics for silk hats they hadn't worn in years.

Of course, there is to be speech-making tonight. A F. Dawson, Davenport banker, one of the original Hoover-for-president boosters, is coming over from Davenport to deliver the principal address.

Fireworks, and, last of all, an old-fashioned torchlight parade down Main-st.

Prominent politicians from Cedar Rapids, Iowa City—even from as far away as Des Moines—will come, it is said, to join in the celebration.

West Branch, ordinarily a 9 o'clock town, stayed up late last night. It didn't go to bed until long past midnight when the townsfolk, who had been sitting by their radios, were definitely certain that Herbert Hoover really had been nominated.

Downtown, several impromptu parades were hastily organized. One was led by "Newt" Butler, the enterprising confectioner, who as a boy once had licked "Hub" Hoover. Butler for nine years was Democratic postmaster here.

for him at the primaries; so his nomination suits me all right."

Prosecuting Attorney Frank Wiedemann, Democrat: "I don't see how Hoover can be elected. He has nothing to offer the farms and I don't see how they can consistently vote for him. He stands for the principles of the Coolidge administration that has refused to aid the farmer although big business has received regular benefits from the administration."

Probate Judge Louis B. McNeal, Republican: "Hoover is the strongest man the Republican party could put in the field. There is not another man in the party unless it is Charles Evans Hughes, who has had the experience or who has the ability as an administrator of Hoover."

Mayor Earl M. Hazen, Republican: "Mr. Hoover has always shown exceptional ability in all that he has undertaken and I believe he will be a strong candidate."

R. T. Lewis, real estate dealer, Republican: "There is no question about the election of Mr. Hoover and I believe he will show the same executive ability and efficiency in conducting the affairs of the nation that he has shown in all of his undertakings as Secretary of Commerce."

Dr. U. S. Davis, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, Republican: "I am more than delighted with Hoover's nomination; can't, in fact, express my exuberant joy too vociferously. I think Mr. Hoover measures up to every standard required for wise and constructive leadership in office."

John H. Clark, Marion attorney who was elected at the preferential primaries as a Willis alternate from the Eighth Congressional District: "There is no doubt that Hoover will be elected next November." Mr. Clark also prophesied that the country would witness one of the hottest presidential campaigns ever staged should Al Smith, New York governor, be Hoover's opponent.

Common Pleas Judge George R. Scribbell, Democrat and candidate for reelection: "The Republican party made a very good choice in naming Herbert Hoover as its presidential candidate."

J. W. Jacoby, attorney and real estate dealer, Democrat: "Al Smith can beat Hoover. I believe Smith, if nominated, will be the most popular presidential candidate in many years and I believe he will have no trouble in defeating Hoover."

Rev. George E. Groves, president of the Marion County Ministerial Association and pastor of Central Christian Church: "Herbert Hoover is a man of character and ability. He has worked his way up from the ranks. In many positions of trust, he has proved himself equal to the responsibility imposed upon him. I think he has the ability and training to make a good president."

NINE ARRESTED FOR PART IN ROBBERIES

Seven Men and Two Women Confess Ohio Bank Thefts

Ind., also admits being with McGray and Harry Smith at St. Henry Bank holdup. Robert Wheatley and his wife, held in Decatur jail, admit harboring McGray and others of the gang, and assisting in theft of various automobiles with which the robberies were effected. Edith Makley, held in Decatur, confessed splitting proceeds of robberies.

Two Years Effort

Roundup of this gang is the culmination of more than two years effort by Ohio and Indiana officers, and operatives of the Ohio Bankers' Association, according to Charles H. Mylander, secretary of the association.

McGray, Robert Wheatley, his wife, Meadows and the Makley woman were arrested in Hammond, Ind., June 8. Howard Smith was arrested in Toledo and turned over to the Darke County authorities. He has been indicted by a grand jury.

Axe was arrested in St. Marys, while Harry Smith was arrested at Grove City, O., by the sheriff of Franklin County.

Kansan Won Over by Plea of Leaders for Midwestern Candidate

his own behalf in the hectic early days of the convention, and consequently against Hoover, nevertheless at no time went over bodily to "the allies."

The selection of Senator Curtis was said to be eminently satisfactory to the secretary of commerce, if, in fact, he did not personally direct it.

Some of Hoover's closest advisers and strongest supporters were in behind the movement for the Kansan.

Senator Borah of Idaho was to place Senator Curtis' name before the convention, and there were to be seconds from some of the most powerful delegations in the convention.

Borah Wins Him

Borah was said to have been largely responsible for the selection of the Kansas senator, who as late as 12 hours ago was still persistent in his refusal to have his name voted upon for the vice presidency. Not only did Borah persuade Curtis to change his mind, but he also was credited with having won over the support of Andrew W. Mellon, and a few other eastern leaders who were either backing other candidates or were non-committal.

Curtis' selection meets the demand voiced by a number of the party leaders for "a dry from west of the Alleghanies," and also for a candidate who is friendly to the agricultural interests of the Middle West. Curtis voted for the McNary-Haugen bill in the Senate, but later voted also to sustain President Coolidge's veto of that measure.

Final adjournment of th convention was expected late this afternoon.

Tumultuous Session

Hoover was named in a tumultuous session last night by a first ballot vote of 837 out of 1,069. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, whose name was formally withdrawn from the race two hours before the balloting began, was next in the poll with 74 votes. Senator Charles Curtis, Kansas' favorite son, was third with 64. The remainder of the votes were scattered among the other state entries, Watson of Indian, Goff of West Virginia, Norris, Dawes, Hughes and President Coolidge, with Watson high with six total of 45.

President Coolidge got 17 votes. Dawes 4, Goff 18, Norris 24, and Hughes 1.

Presents Hoover's Name

The first prolonged outburst of the convention came when John L. McNab, chairman of the California delegation, presented Hoover's name to the assemblage. A demonstration which lasted 24 minutes greeted the first mention of the commerce secretary's name in the nominating speech. State banners were lifted from their sockets and paraded about the hall by the Hoover delegations and the carnival spirit found voice in the shrieking of all manner of noise-making gee-gaws and flag waving. A huge portrait of Hoover which was carried to the speaker's platform after the demonstration had been under way for 15 minutes was the signal for a renewed outburst.

Straight for Hoover

Alabama started the roll call with a solid vote of 15 for Hoover. The next six states responded similarly with solid Hoover votes and when Florida cast one vote for Curtis, Hoover already had a start of 114.

President Coolidge got his start when the Illinois delegation was reached, the Lowden withdrawal having split that bloc of 61 votes six ways. Coolidge got 13, Lowden 16, and Hoover 24.

Hoover was over when New York and Pennsylvania cast their respective 90 and 79 solid for him.

Wallace Pupils Heard in Recital

Music lovers of Marion and vicinity were treated to one of the most enjoyable voice recitals of the season last night at the auditorium, Central Junior High School. The performance was given by pupils from the classes of Mrs. Clara S. Wallace before a fairly large and appreciative audience.

One of the most delightful numbers of the program was the opening selection, "Carmena" by Page-Wilson, sung by a double quartet in which Mrs. Wallace herself appeared. Other members of this group were Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Shadaker, Mrs. Roman Knecht and Leonard Young of this city, Rev. Paul Clousse and Dr. Wilbur Johnson of Carey and Mrs. Wilfred Wilkins of Martel.

The first solo group was sung by Miss Desda Mae Winters, whose selections were "Blossom Time," Salter, and "Ho! Mr. Piper," Curran. Miss Kathryn Kraft was heard in two numbers, "Wake Up," Phillips and "Gossiping," Dodge, after which Miss Louise Van Buren of Carey sang "Well I Know a Shepherd True," an old French piece and the "Valley of Laughter," by Sanderson.

Wilbur Pfeiffer's solos were "Love Sleeps in a Rose," Weaver and "A Bachelor's Lament," Curran, while Miss Janice Laughman had selected for her solo group, "Petite Rose," Cazeck and "The False Prophet," Scott. Gaynell Johnson of Carey sang two numbers, "I Heard You Go By," Wood, and "The Mother Heart," Gaines, after which Leonard Young contributed two solos, "The Restless Sea," Hamblen and "Sing Eyes" Speaks.

Perhaps the outstanding number of the program was "The Minuet at Marley," Beethoven, a group selection sung by the Misses Desda Mae Winters, Mary Kathryn Barnhart, Margaret Adams, Martha Baker, Sylvia Scherff, Thelma Mayer and Virginia Fowler. Miss Fowler's solos "Whither," Schubert, and "Song Is So Old," Terry, were exceptionally well received.

Two beautiful numbers by Miss Barnhart were "Love Has Eyes," Bishop, and "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," Hayden. Mrs. Knecht sang "In the Time of Roses," Reichardt, and "Were I the Rose," Dichmont, after which Mr. Shadaker appeared for two encored selections, "By the Bend of the River," Edwards, and "An Irish Mother's Lament," Gaul.

Mrs. Wilkins sang "The Nightingale and the Rose," Nevin, and Curran's "Dawn" and Gail Kurtz, who is a pupil of Carey, was heard in "I Must Down to the Seas Again," Dunmore, and "Dreams," Streleski. "Joy of Morning," Ware and "Rose Time," Greene were sung by Mrs. Shadaker, after which Reverend Clouser was heard in a group of four lovely solo numbers, "O Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me?" Handel, "Her Rose," Coombs, "When Celia Sings," Mohr, and "I Love Life," by Curran. The program closed with the "Passage Bird's Farewell," by Hildach, sung as a duet by Reverend Clouser and Mr. Kurtz.

Piano accompaniments were played by Mrs. James Ferguson and the Misses Elma Sage and Ruby Kraft of this city, and Miss Corinne Shafer of Carey. Baskets of peonies, roses and other garden flowers made a colorful background for the musicale.

The Mystery at Styles

THE YEAR'S MOST BAFFLING SERIAL STORY

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

CHAPTER 18

I CAUGHT the momentary gleam of her tawny eyes as she raised them. I felt certain that at that moment she would willingly have torn the little lawyer, with his insinuations, into pieces, but she replied quietly enough:

"No. I was very comfortable where I was. I fixed my mind on my book."

"And that is all you can tell us?"

"That is all."

The examination was over, though I doubted if the coroner was entirely satisfied with it. I think he suspected that Mary Cavendish could tell more if she chose.

Amy Hill, shop assistant, was next called, and deposed to having sold a will form on the afternoon of the 17th to William Earl, under-gardener at Styles.

William Earl and Manning succeeded her, and testified to witnessing a document. Manning fixed the time at about 4:30. William was of the opinion that it was rather earlier.

Cynthia Murdoch came next. She had, however, little to tell. She had known nothing of the tragedy, until awakened by Mrs. Cavendish.

"You did not hear the table fall?"

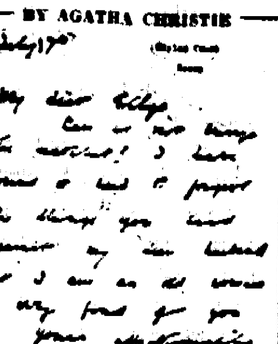
"No. I was fast asleep."

The Coroner smiled.

"A good conscience makes a sound sleeper," he observed. "Thank you, Miss Murdoch, that is all."

"Miss Howard."

Miss Howard produced the letter written to her by Mrs. Inglethorp on the evening of the 17th. Poirot and I had, of course, already seen it. It added nothing to our knowledge of the tragedy. The following is a fac-simile:



It was handed to the jury who scrutinized it attentively.

"I fear it does not help us much," said the Coroner, with a sigh. "There is no mention of any of the events of that afternoon.

"Plain as a pikestaff to me," said Miss Howard shortly. "It shows clearly enough that my poor old friend had just found out she'd been made a fool of!"

"It says nothing of the kind in the letter," the coroner pointed out.

"No, because Emily never could bear to put herself in the wrong. But I know her. She wanted me back. But she wasn't going to own that I'd been right. She went round about. Most people do. Don't believe in it myself."

Mr. Wells smiled faintly. So, I noticed, did several of the jury. Miss Howard was obviously quite a public character.

"Anyway, all this tomfoolery is a great waste of time," continued the lady, glancing up and down the jury disparagingly. "Talk — talk—talk! When all the time we know perfectly well—"

The coroner interrupted her in an agony of apprehension:

"Thank you, Miss Howard, that is all."

I fancy he breathed a sigh of relief when she complied.

Then came the sensation of the day. The coroner called Albert Mace, chemist's assistant.

It was our agitated young man of the pale face. In answer to the coroner's questions, he explained that he was a qualified pharmacist, but had only recently come to this particular shop, as the assistant formerly there had just been called up for the army.

These preliminaries completed, the coroner proceeded to business.

"Mr. Mace, have you lately sold strychnine to any unauthorized person?"

"Yes, sir."

"When was this?"

"Last Monday night."

"Monday? Not Tuesday?"

"No sir. Monday, the 16th."

"Will you tell us to whom you sold it?"

You could have heard a pin drop.

"Yes sir, it was to Mr. Inglethorp."

Every eye turned simultaneously to where Alfred Inglethorp was sitting, impassive and wooden. He started slightly, as the damning words fell from the young man's lips. I half thought he was going to rise from his chair, but he remained seated, although a remarkably well acted expression of astonishment rose on his face.

"You are sure of what you say?" asked the coroner sharply.

"Quite sure, sir."

"Are you in the habit of selling strychnine indiscriminately over the counter?"

The wretched young man wilted visibly under the coroner's frown.

"Oh, no sir—of course not. But, seeing it was Mr. Inglethorp of the Hall, I thought there was no harm in it. He said it was to poison a dog."

Inwardly I sympathized. It was only human nature to endeavour to please. "The Hall"—especially when it might result in custom being transferred from Coot's to the local establishment.

"Is it not customary for anyone purchasing poison to sign a book?"

"Yes sir, Mr. Inglethorp did so."

"Have you got the book here?"

"Yes, sir."

It was produced; and, with a few words of stern censure, the coroner dismissed the wretched Mr. Mace.

Then, amidst a breathless silence, Alfred Inglethorp was called. Did he realize, I wondered, how closely the halter was being drawn around his neck?

The coroner went straight to the point.

"On Monday evening last, did you purchase strychnine for the purpose of poisoning a dog?"

Inglethorp replied with perfect calmness:

"No, I did not. There is no dog at Styles, except an outdoor sheepdog, which is in perfect health."

"You deny absolutely having purchased strychnine from Albert Mace on Monday last?"

"I do."

"Do you also deny this?"

The coroner handed him the register in which his signature was inscribed.

"Certainly I do. The hand-writing is quite different from mine. I will show you."

He took an old envelope out of his pocket, and wrote his name on it, handing it to the jury. It was certainly utterly dissimilar.

"Then what is your explanation of Mr. Mace's statement?"

Alfred Inglethorp replied imperturbably:

"Mr. Mace must have been mistaken."

The coroner hesitated for a moment, and then said:

"Mr. Inglethorp, as a mere matter of form, would you mind telling us where you were on the evening of Monday, July 16th?"

"Really—I cannot remember."

"That is absurd, Mr. Inglethorp," said the coroner sharply. "Think again."

Inglethorp shook his head.

"I cannot tell you. I have an idea that I was out walking."

"In what direction?"

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

ME and Jubilee had just woke up this morning and I was looking at him and he was looking at me and we were both trying to remember what had happened yesterday. I remembered that I had set the squirrel trap by a rat hole under the barn, and then all at once I remembered about Younise and the snake bit and I sot up 'a the bed as sudden as if I had sot on a grass-burr. Just then my father called me and asted me if I was awake, and I said I was. Then he asted me if I was feeling all right, and I said I was, and he went back to bed.

I let Jubilee down and put on my britches and went down, and the whole bunch but Younkise was in the barn, and they were all talking at once about the snake bite. When I went in to breakfast my family was talking about it and my father said there was a piece about it in the paper and my name was spelt wrong. I didn't care.

My grandfather and my aunt had a fuss yesterday. My grandfather was setting by the open window chewing and smoking and reading, and he felt something at the back of neck, and he said he thought it might be Annabell-Lee and didn't pay it no mind. But finely he didn't feel comfortable and put his hand up and found a walnut inside of his collar and the squirrel jumped down off the back of his chair and fussed at him and then went out of the window. My grandfather begun to laugh and my mother and aunt came running and he told them about it, and asted them what they supposed the squirrel was trying to do. My aunt said when a squirrel had more nuts than it could eat it buried the rest, and that it had found a good dirty place and was trying to bury the nut in my grandfathers neck, and that's how come they quarreled.

We all went to the hospital and Younisses mother and father were there, and her mother buzzed me, and the doctor said my prompt action saved Younisses life, and her father didn't say anything, he only patted me on the head and went and looked out of the window. Men don't care much about such things. Her mother cried. I asted the doctor if Younise could have some dewberry cobbler and he said she could. So I hiked home and my mother made some and I took it and some sugar and cream to the hospital and sot till she woke up and the nurse made me feed it to her with a spoon. I kinda liked that. The doctor said he was going out and get snake bit so he could get some dewberry cobbler, and the nurse said there was nothing doing because it was her turn next.

I watched out for snakes going after the cows. I didn't see any.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps Her So Much

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"I was just completely run-down. I had tired, heavy, sluggish feelings and I could not eat. I was losing in weight. I read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what a good medicine it is, that I started taking it. I have taken eight bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and about the same in tablet form. This is one medicine a woman should have in the house all the time. I am improving every day and I sure am able to eat. I am willing to answer any letters asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ella Rowsams, 21 Chautauqua St., N. S. Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE HEART STORY OF A WOMAN'S AFFECTIONS

By ADELE GARRISON

Her Career or Her Boy? Question Agitates Madge

KATHERINE slipped her hand into the curve of my elbow as I told her that she would have ample time to answer my question between the house and the gate.

"Come along then," she said, "but if your query is what I think it's going to take more time than the interval you've named. However, let's get clear of the house. I'm not going to the big road, anyway, but in the other direction. I'm going to tramp up the hill back of the house, rest my eyes with that view and then go on down the wood road for a mile or so."

"I'll go out to the first wild apple tree beyond the barn," I said, naming a boundary which we set for Junior when he was smaller. "Then Kate will be able to call me if Junior needs me."

"Her voice will reach farther than that," Katherine said with a smile, and neither of us spoke again until we reached the tree and sat down on the grass beneath it.

"So you think you know what I'm going to ask you," I said.

"Practically sure of it," she returned. "It's the inevitable query of anyone confronted with your problem. You want to know whether you ought to stay at the farm with Junior this winter or go to the city to live, coming home only week ends."

"You'd have been fuel for a bonfire if you'd lived in Salem a couple of centuries ago," I told her. "You've named my question exactly. I hope your answer will be as decisive."

"It's going to be," she said emphatically, "although I don't know how pleasing it is going to be to you. I say, go to your work by all means," she laughed. "But, seriously, Madge, let to Junior under the present circumstances. In fact, to speak plainly, you would only add another complication to the difficult situation I shall have to manage this Winter."

Involuntarily I stiffened. I defy any mother to listen with absolute calmness to the dictum of nurse or teacher that she is a handicap to her child. Then, as I caught the amused twinkle in Katherine's eyes, I knew that she purposely had phrased her answer in provocative fashion.

"Hook, line—also sinker, that time," she laughed. "But, seriously, Madge I mean what I've said ,only my reasons for it will smooth down your justly rumpled feathers, I'm sure."

"Just a second," I said, furious at myself for my betrayal of my chagrin. "You ought to know that you needn't explain to me. When we made this compact that you should take charge of Junior for the year of my work in Philip Verdayne's organization, I resolved to keep hands off."

"And you've kept your resolve wonderfully," she said. "If you hadn't I should have been over the seas and far away. But just because of that you're entitled to the explanation of my words. So please keep quiet, if you can, and let me talk awhile."

I closed my lips tightly and pressed my finger against them before looking my hands in my lap. Katherine laughed lightly and then plunged directly into clearly clipped speech.

"In the first place," she said, "there's nothing for you to worry about in Junior's physical condition. He's coming along splendidly—the accident wasn't nearly so serious as we feared and the Winter out here will set him up beautifully.

"But"—she paused impressively—"please remember that in the farmhouse this Winter will be two doting grandparents just bubbling over with plans for his entertainment and perfectly willing to spread themselves upon the floor as rugs anytime he says the word. It's going to be a Herculean task to keep him from being spoiled. You, no doubt, could accomplish it, but you'd be a wreck by the time the Winter was over and you'd have acquired the undying enmity of your mother-in-law. I expect to get mine from her many a time but it's a different problem with me. A trained nurse is supposed to be rigid and uncompromising in the discharge of her duty, and while your mother-in-law may rebel at my authority over Junior, she isn't going to resent it as she would if you or any other near relative were issuing the ultimatums. If you stay here, it will only mean divided authority; Mother Graham trying to have you go to the mat with me over something she wants to do and similar problems ad infinitum. 'An' you love me,' Madge go and do the work you've contracted to do. I'll take care of your boy."

TWO CARS CRASH AT STREET INTERSECTION

Machine Damaged, One Person Slightly Hurt in Collision

A Ford coupe belonging to I. E. Dewus, 736 Wood st., was badly damaged and a Buick sedan belonging to L. T. Rockwell, and driven by his daughter, Miss Lillian Rockwell, was slightly damaged, when the cars collided at the intersection of W. Church st. and Oberyer yesterday afternoon. Miss Louise Kern, who was riding with Miss Rockwell, received a minor cut on the right arm and an injury to her nose when she was thrown against the windshield.

Miss Kern, who was taken from the car in a dazed condition, was removed to the office of a physician where it was found that her injuries were not serious.

Miss Rockwell told police who were called that she was driving east on Church st. and the Ford driven by Dewus was going west and as she reached the intersection of Church and Oliver, he turned south on Oliver in front of her. The Ford was thrown against the curb and front wheels broken while the Buick escaped with a broken windshield and a badly crashed fender and headlights.
